Boost in Missile Plan Seen

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower is considering recommendations from top U.S. scientists for stepping up missile development in the race with Russia into space.

The highly secret scientific appraisal coincided with an abrupt warning from top administration spokesmen that more money may have to be poured into the nation's military effort, cooling off hopes for a tax cut.

Eisenhower, awaiting the Washington arrival Thursday of Queen Elizabeth, scheduled a talk today with Budget Director Percival Brundage. The conference was considered a possible further step in the continuing massive reappraisal of the missile program in the light of Russia's sending a satellite into orbit around the earth.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was expected today to assess the impact of the Red Sputnik on American foreign policy at a news conference.

Sputnik Keeps Spinning

The Red Sputnik itself continued spinning around the globe every 96 minutes amid scientific speculation it may soon enter the earth's atmosphere and burn up. A Naval Research Laboratory spokesman said it has been losing altitude due to air resistance. He said it dipped to a low of 147 miles in a pass over Washington Monday.

In Cambridge, Mass., scientists at the Smithsonian Astrophysical observatory said they hope soon to solve the "celestian mechanics" behind the mysterious force tugging at the satellite's third stage rocket which is speeding ahead of the artificial moon.

The President, it was understood, received specific recommendations from his 13-member science advisory committee Tuesday. There was no indication what the recommendations contained or if they would signal a shift into higher gear for the missile program being sought by congressmen who claim Russia has taken a significant lead over this country in the field.

Tax Relief Doubtful

Indications Americans may have to forget about tax relief next year because of the military security program came Tuesday night from Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles.

Nixon told the International Industrial Development Conference in San Francisco: "Let us resolve once and for all that the absolute necessity of maintaining our superiority in military strength must always take priority over the understandable desire to reduce our taxes."

Quarles told the American Institute of Consulting Engineers in New York: "As long as we are faced by challenging threats of Soviet Russia, sacrifices will continue to be required in the form of individual effort, or impersonal effort in the form of taxes..."

Annual B-I-E Program Set Here Tomorrow

The Monessen Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Monessen Education Association and school district tomorrow will observe the fourth annual Business-Industry-Education Day in Monessen.

There will be no school tomorrow for local public and parochial students as their teachers take part in tours of business and industrial establishments in the community.

Tours will begin shortly after the participants gather at the High School Auditorium at 8:15 a. m.

At noon, lunch sponsored by the host companies will be served at Johnson's Restaurant.

Tours will continue during the afternoon.

Four Burn to Death In Boston Building

BOSTON (UP)—Four persons, including two small children, were burned to death early today when flames swept a three story apartment building in the south end.

Dead were Ronald Bennett, 25, children, Carl, 4 and Sherrie, 2, and Alice Ford, 75 a widow.

U. S. Helicopters Deliver Food In Spain's Flood

VALENCIA, Spain (UP)—U.S. Navy helicopters delivered 2,500 food packages to flood - stricken Valencia today to spearhead a massive international rescue mission.

City officials announced an unofficial survey indicated the Turia river flood, the worst in Spain in 60 years, killed at least 62 persons when it smashed into the provincial capital Monday.

The helicopters flew into the disaster area from the U.S. aircraft carrier Lake Champlain, which arrived off shore today. The British Mediterranean fleet also was ready to lend its aid to the mercy mission, but had not yet been called upon.

Valencia and the surrounding area were flooded Monday when the Turia River boiled over its banks. The river was reported today to have receded to near normal.

Damage is expected to run into millions of dollars.

The French Embassy in Madrid said it planned a donation and other diplomatic missions to Spain were expected to make similar offers.

One-hundred 80 tons of American food, originally contributed to the National Catholic Welfare Conference in Spain, was diverted to Valencia flood victims and arrived by truck today.

Son Admits He Killed Father

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Claud Hunt, 62, was shot and killed in the bedroom of his home early today and state police said his son, Joseph, 30, admitted the shooting.

About four other members of the family, who were in the house at the time, heard the shot and ran to the bedroom to find the elder Hunt dying of a wound in the chest, police said.

The son waited for police. He admitted the shooting during a family quarrel.

Middle East Crisis Grave, Says Pearson

"Do not underestimate the intelligence and foresight of the Russians," Drew Pearson, internationally known newspaper reporter, told a record crowd of over 700 persons at the 37th annual Monessen Chamber of Commerce banquet last night at Twin Coaches.

"The Russians," he said, "are not to be taken lightly. They are making tremendous strides in the scientific field as well as in education, economics and diplomacy."

Pearson paid particular attention to Russian's gains in the Middle East, saying the United States is losing ground disastrously and we are in danger of losing our oil reserve there."

He described the Middle East situation as "grave," claiming the United States has to face the fact that the Middle East is the most explosive area in the world.

"Anything can happen there," he declared. "When and if it happens the world could be reduced to a cinder."

"A move by the Turkish army on Syria could be the spark, as could a Syrian move to take over Jordan, covertly for the Russians. If this happens — and there is a possibility — it could bring about World War III, which would not be fought in trenches or foxholes.

"The war might be over in a matter of days, and there might not be too much left except the smoking ruins of civilization."

Pearson quoted Khrushchev's blunt warning that "if war breaks out we are so near Turkey and you are not." The columnist then referred to the U. S.'s equally blunt warning that despite distances Khrushchev should be under no illusion that the United States, Turkey's friend and ally, takes "lightly its obligation under the North Atlantic treaty."

'Chips Are Down'

"In other words," he said, "the chips are down. The two biggest nations in the world have served notice on each other that one move by the other means war."

He pointed to Jordan as a focal point for the U. S., Russia and Syria. He added that he visited Jordan during his recent tour of the Middle East and talked to King Hussein, a friend of the United States.

"If Hussein should be assassinated — and there is a great possibility-by Syrian agents, it might also touch the match to ignite World War III. Hussein's grandfather was killed by an assassin because he wanted to make friends with Israel," Pearson said.

"If Hussein should be killed, his kingdom unquestionably would be united to Syria to extend down to the Gulf of Aquaba near the Suez Canal and not far from oil-rich Saudi Arabia."

U. S. Would Fight

He said the United States probably would fight to keep Near East oil out of Russian hands since that area holds 70 per cent of the world's oil. This would be a "tremendous thing for Russia since oil is vitally needed to build up huge military machines," he said.

Pearson blamed our losing ground in the Near East on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, saying "many of Dulles' actions have caused our allies not to trust him."

The United States, he said, must do something immediately to "keep the Russians from gaining any more ground."

He then turned to the Russian advances in the guided missile field, saying the Reds are "well ahead of the United States." He placed the blame for this on feud-

Group Formed To Fight Huge Water Project

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—Postmaster E. Sturgis Colburn of Mill Run, Fayette County, has been named president of a committee opposing John H. Ware's plan for a gigantic water system in Western Pennsylvania.

Also elected at a meeting Monday night were Dr. John W. Harbaugh, University of Pittsburgh professor, vice president, and Edward Sparks, Indian Head, Fayette County, treasurer.

The group claims the 250 million dollar project would flood hundreds of square miles of land and would "benefit only Ware," a water magnate. It charges an enabling act empowering the Westmoreland County Water Authority to condemn land in several counties means the end of local government in Pennsylvania.

The orgaization said it planned to fight the re-election of state legislators who voted for the measure in the last legislature.

Under the Ware plan, a half-mile-long dam would be erected across Indian Creek. The reservoir would feed a 43-mile underground system to carry water through Fayette and Westmoreland counties to Pittsburgh.

6 Children Die of Flu At State Institution

By UNITED PRESS

The Pennhurst State Training School for the mentally retarded in Chester County today was in the grip of an influenza epidemic, which has taken the lives of six children, the most recent early this morning.

School doctor Leopold Potkonski who reported the sixth death today, said one patient remains on the critical list. A number of additional flu cases were reported.

The institution at Spring City counted more than 838 patients of its 3,149 population stricken and about 50 of the 400 attendants ill.

Dr. Robert A. Matthews, state mental health commissioner, said state health officials were cooperating with the Welfare Department to determine if the disease was Asian flu.

Matthews said four of the dead children were recent admissions and that all were "extremely retarded types" who are particularly susceptible to all types of diseases because they were "constitutionally, as well as mentally, defective and usually feeble."

Dr. Matthews said none of the children at the institution had received Asian flu vaccinations although it had been ordered.

"Supplies of vaccine have been ordered for all patients and employes in the state institutions but, due to short supply, only a few institutions have received their allotments," Matthews said.

The Pennhurst victims ranged in age from six to 16. Their names were not disclosed under a general policy.

Elsewhere, two additional deaths from respiratory illnesses were reported in the Allegheny Valley.

Point Marion Banker Before Federal Court

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The government continued today to present alleged sources and items of income as evidence in the trial of the former president of the First National Bank of Point Marion, in Fayette County.

of Bobtown, Greene County, is on

The defendant, Milo K. Ruse, 56. trial before a Federal Court jury of six men and six women on a charge of evading $6,401 in income taxes in 1950 and 1951. Judge Herbert P. Sorg is presiding.

Carl R. Maple and J. Sidwell Hackney, both former directors of the bank, testified Tuesday that Ruse turned over 20 shares of bank stock to each of them but that Ruse got the dividends.

Attorney Joseph W. Ray Jr., South Union Township, Fayette County, a director of the bank until it was sold to Gallatin National Bank of Uniontown, testified that a fee of $6,000 or $7,000 was authorized by directors of Point Marion Bridge Company as part of the liquidation.

Ray also testified directors of the bridge company authorized travel expenses, in one instance amounting to $450, to Ruse.

Fire Destroys $850,000 Plant In Greensburg

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—One of the worst fires in the history of Greensburg destroyed the Keystone Aluminum Siding Co. plant Tuesday night.

Damage to the block-long South Greensburg manufacturing installation was estimated at $850,000 by E. C. Keller, owner of the building and president of the company. He said damage might reach $1,000,000.

Firemen from seven companies fought the blaze, which apparently broke out in a paint room. The concern manufactures house siding and storm windows.

The roof collapsed little more than 30 minutes after firemen reached the scene. Exploding 20-gallon paint cans hampered the firemen.

Cause of the fire could not be determined immediately.

The plant is located about two miles from the business section of Greensburg.

Trial Opens of McKeesport Man

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Andrew R. Snavely, 22, McKeesport, Pa., went on trial for murder today in the fatal beating of Steve Goca, 35, Clairton, Pa.

McKeesport policeman August Heveker, the first witness, testified that he found Goca unconscious outside a McKeesport club on Oct. 12, 1956. Goca died a few hours later.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Harry Savage said Snavely inflicted fatal injuries in the fight. He said the dispute started over the affections of Violet Preston, McKeesport, who had gone to the club with Goca.

Former Allegheny County Judge Francis R. Tapich represented the defendant. The trial was being held before Judge Harry M. Montgomery.

Dulles Sees Threat of Attack by Syria and Soviet Union on Turks

Implies U. S. Would Fight but Thinks Mideast War Unlikely

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States must be on guard against a possible attack on Turkey by Syria and the Soviet Union. But he said he does not think an outbreak of war in the Middle East is likely.

Dulles implied that the United States would take the offensive against Russia if it attacks Turkey. He ruled out any defensive reaction by the United States which would leave Russia what he called a privileged sanctuary.

Dulles told his news conference that despite recent Soviet scientific achievements, the United States still has a very marked military superiority over the Soviet Union.

Ahead in Science

He conceded that Russia probably has some advantage in potential military activity of the future, but he said he is absolutely confident of this country's ability to move ahead and stay ahead in the scientific field.

In this connection, he said, Russia's satellite accomplishment is very useful. He said Sputnik completely voids complacency based on the idea that American superiority is automatic and alerts the nation and Congress to the necessity for pushing ahead in scientific fields that may be decisive five to 10 years from now.

As for Russia's violent propaganda campaign against Turkey, Dulles said he always feels a measure of concern when such charges are leveled so wildly and indiscriminately. He is fearful that this type of campaign may be a smokescreen to hide something more serious, he said.

Like Korean Situation

The Secretary said the present situation resembles the period at the outbreak of the Korean War in June of 1950.

"Do you fear there might be an attack by Syria and the Soviet Union on Turkey?" a reporter asked.

Dulles replied that one always must be on guard against that possibility.

He then was asked his view of the danger of the "outbreak of war in the Middle East."

Dulles said he believes the eyes of the world are focused sufficiently on the area that it is unlikely that war will occur. This is one of the advantages of the United Nations — to focus quickly international attention on trouble spots he said.

Other Comments

At his news conference Dulles also:

—Rejected two-day agreements between the United States and the Soviet Union.

—Said Russia's scientific achievements make it logical to take a new look at American laws limiting U. S. cooperation with other countries in scientific and other fields.

—Russia's success in launching an earth satellite will create a unity of purpose between Congress and the people to forge ahead in scientific fields.

—The administration should know definitely in a day or two whether Vice President Richard M. Nixon will make a good will tour in Europe.

—Syria's decision to ask for United Nations debate on its border dispute with Turkey may revive a previous U.S. plan to seek a U.N. investigation.

Dulles was asked whether the world may be "on the brink of war again." He replied that anyone who studies history finds that the world has always been on the brink of war. Over a long period, he said, the world has seen three wars every five years. He added that it is easier to wage peace more effectively if nations are aware of war dangers.

Public Schools Of Bellmarette Area Closed

The current flu type epidemic has closed all public schools in the Belle Vernon-Fayette City area.

Robert VanBremen, supervising principal of the Bellmarette Joint Schools, announced this morning that the schools would be closed until Monday morning, due to absenteeism caused by the epidemic.

Classes had been suspended on Monday and Tuesday due to the death of Ernest Dolfi, instrumental music supervisor, and this morning when the students reported there were about 750 absent. Enrollment in the district is 2360.

VanBremen stated that he was originally opposed to closing the schools when the illness struck. However, there are now many teachers and custodians absent along with the students. Many others reported for work in the classrooms suffering severe colds.

Present plans call for resuming classes at the usual hour on Monday morning.

A meeting of the Bellmar Band scheduled for 1:30 tomorrow afternoon at the High School will be held.

Gov. Leader Will Address County Rally on Oct. 29

Gov. George M. Leader has been announced as the principal speaker for a dinner which will climax the Democratic campaign in Westmoreland County on Oct. 29.

Half of Federal Troops Leave Little Rock, Ark.

BULLETIN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — The Army flew half of its 1,000 paratrooper integration task force out of Little Rock today and announced plans to relieve the other half Thursday or Friday.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Half of the 1,000-man paratrooper detachment that integrated Central High School at bayonet point started moving out of Little Rock today.

Three hundred and twenty men of the 101st Airborne Division, who had been staying at the Little Rock Junior College armory, were trucked to Little Rock Air Force Base.

There giant transport planes were gathering to take them back to Fort Campbell, Ky., their regular base. The rest of the 500 leavi-- will be drawn from units at Camp Robinson.

Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker ordered half of the paratrooper integration task force withdrawn because of the relative calm that has prevailed since they integrated Central High September 25.

Brucker also ordered 500 members of the 10,000-man federalized Arkansas National Guard mustered out of service.

But a spokesman for Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, commander of the Arkansas military district, said it may be "several more days" before the mechanics of mustering out the Guard are completed.

The paratrooper members of the 101st Airborne Division were

State Senator Fined $5,000

PITTSBURGH (UP) — State Sen. Theodore H. Schmidt pleaded no defense today as he was about to go on trial in Federal Court on a charge of failing to file income tax returns for 1953 and 1954.

Federal Judge John W. McIlvaine accepted the plea and fined the Pittsburgh Democratic legislator $5,000.

Schmidt's surprise plea followed an attempt by his counsel to have the case thrown out of court. Defense attorney James P. McArdle argued Tuesday that when the Internal Revenue Service accepted delinquent taxes of $329 for 1953 and $721 for 1954, plus penalties and interest, it barred criminal prosecution.

Queen, Philip Leave Ottawa for Jamestown

OTTAWA (UP)—Ottawa gave Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip a thunderous sendoff today as they ended a four-day visit to Canada and took off for Jamestown, Va., for another six days of regal celebrations.

A thick fog and nippy 40-degree weather failed to put a damper on the city's enthusiasm as it bid "au revoir" to the first reigning monarch to visit the capital in 18 years. As usual, it was the younger population who spearheaded the festivities.

The royal couple stopped at Landsdowne Park on their way to Uplands Airport. There they were greeted by more than 15,000 howling, flag - waving elementary school children in the loudest salute the regal pair have received yet.

Pickup 4th pgh: The couple

The couple will help Jamestown celebrate its 350th anniversary as the first English settlement in America, will visit historic Williamsburg, the nation's capital where they will be guests at the White House of President and Mrs. Eisenhower, and will end their North American visit in New York, Oct. 21.

Their trip to Canada was filled with a wreath - laying ceremony at the National War Memorial, Her Majesty's opening of Parliament to become the first reigning monarch to preside over Canada's governing body, her debut as a television speaker, a radio talk by her husband, church, and the opening of a new highway through the capital city.

The schedule in the United States is just as crowded, but at least it includes some unofficial doings—a football game, a visit to a thoroughbred horse farm, and a sight-seeing trip to the Empire State Bldg.

There were three receptions for the couple in Canada — one for ing among top brass in the Pentagon and "witch-hunting".

"Scientists," he stated, "have been investigated, hounded and discouraged from working for the government, thus delaying our guided missile program.

Scientists 'Free Thinkers'

"It happens that scientists tend to be inquisitive free-thinkers and have challenging minds. And they don't relish the prospect of having their ideas scrutinized by such as Admiral Strauss of the AEC, Senator McCarthy or Vice-President Nixon when the latter was master-minding the House Unamerican activities back in 1946."

Pearson said scientists began being disgusted during the late Senator McCarthy's investigation of the Signal Corps.

"McCarthy didn't start the witch-hunting actually. It was Nixon when he was in the House of Representatives," he said.

This investigation, Pearson declared, caused serious interruptions to 20 vital defense projects, including NIKE, guided missiles and rockets.

"These delays allowed the Russians to get ahead of us," he charged.

He then complained that President Eisenhower is "too complacent."

"He has the tendency to postpone problems and not see in advance problems building up," according to Pearson.

Pearson said the U. S. must "have more cooperation by the Army, Navy, Air Force with the government and scientists."

"We're going to have to work as a team if we are to catch and surpass the Russians," he said.

"There are a lot of brilliant minds in the United States and I believe we can surge ahead in the missile field, but not without cooperation."

Makes Predictions

In a series of "predictions of things to come", Pearson said:

Dulles will be forced to resign in six months; the Dow-Jones index will drop below 400 but will pick up after Jan. 1; the debt ceiling will be lifted $350 billion; Nixon will be next Republican nominee for President, and Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan, or Sen. Joseph Clark, Pennsylvania, will be the Democratic nominee. He also predicted a third party in the south because of the integration situation.

Following his address, Pearson answered questions from the audience.

He was introduced by Harry R. Pore Jr., editor of The Daily Independent, which carries Pearson's column.

The banquet began with invocation by Rabbi Theodore Stampfer, Kneseth Israel Synagogue, followed by greetings by Leonard Stern, co-chairman, and Charles W. Hagerstrand, Chamber president.

In his talk, Hagerstrand pointed out that a record membership of 715 has been attained and expressed appreciation for the "splendid cooperation" the Chamber received the past year from citizens of Monessen.

Cieply Honored

Hagerstrand then presented a plaque to George Cieply, who will relinquish his post as executive manager on Nov. 1 to accept a position with Pittsburgh Steel Co. The plaque praised Cieply for his "dynamic spirit and excellent service."

Cieply spoke briefly and expressed his appreciation for "all the cooperation given me the past four years."

The Rev. Martin J. O'Toole, St. Leonard Roman Catholic Church, gave the benediction.

Harold T. Baker led group singing and Denver Rhome played organ music during dinner.

Frank P. Ezerski Jr., co-chairman, was toastmaster.

Big Reception Awaits Queen At Jamestown

JAMESTOWN, Va. (UP)—Queen Elizabeth II today arrives in historical Virginia to make her first visit to the United States since she ascended the British throne.

A dazzling reception awaited the young queen scarcely a dozen miles from where Lord Cornwallis heralded the freedom of this country by surrendering his trapped forces.

The Queen and Prince Philip were scheduled to arrive by Canadian Royal Air Force plane this afternoon at Patrick Henry Airport not far from where their nation planted the first English-speaking colonies in the New World 350 years ago at Jamestown and Williamsburg.

Thousands of persons were waiting to greet the royal couple, who will spend the rest of the day touring the tradition-steeped area.

Autumn lay scarlet and gold across this corner of land rich in memories of courage and privation, of the flowering of a thriving colony and finally of resentment and rebellion against the British crown.

Here on swampy Jamestown Island, first stop of the Queen's tour, 104 colonists in three tiny ships with doughty Capt. John Smith rooted Britain on American soil. At nearby Williamsburg, now carefully restored and reconstructed, Virginia's capital grew to a center of colonial elegance from 1699 until 1780 when a new nation was aflame with revolt.

The 600 troops lining the route of the Queen's carriage ride down Williamsburg's main street today will re-enact the battle of Yorktown Friday and Saturday.

Seeks Release of Priest in China

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Rep. James G. Fulton has asked the State Department to intensify its efforts to secure the release of a Pittsburgh priest imprisoned in Red China.

The Republican congressman, from nearby Dormont, asked the department for a report on its actions to obtain the release of Rev. John Paul Wagner, who was taken into custody June 6, 153.

Father Wagner, 52, has a sister and two brothers living in the Pittsburgh district.

Washington Aflutter Waiting for Queen

WASHINGTON (UP)—Queen Elizabeth's visit has the nation's capital all aflutter—like an urbane dowager with the jitters at her daughter's debut.

The social set is taking it the hardest. The big thing has been to be among those invited to the round of dinners and receptions—and a chance to meet the royal couple after they arrive here Thursday.

Just about everybody wants to see the Queen. City officials predicted there will be a million persons lining the streets to catch a glimpse of her as she rides to the White House.

City officials who have had scrub brushes working overtime urged a final "pick-up, sweep-up" campaign before the royal couple arrive.

William Z. Xanten, sanitation superintendent, ordered his street cleaning crews to keep the Queen's path in "apple pie" order. The capital's main thoroughfares are being vacuum-cleaned and even a crew of 22 white-coated men were swing into action with pushcarts.

Planners for the royal welcome are hopeful a forecast of rain will hold off until after the welcoming parade to the White House. But one forecaster fearing the worst, said: "She shouldn't mind the inclemency . . . I hear it rains all the time in England."

The weather outlook is good for the royal couple's visit to the Maryland-North Carolina football game at nearby College Park, Md., on Saturday.

Rain or shine the Queen will be given a hearty welcome. Government workers and many school children will be released to join the parade along with thousands of others.

Officials burned midnight oil last night going over final plans. Police and other agencies responsible for the Queen's security also worked overtime.

"Go easy on the handshaking; Her Majesty is very tired," said one of the Queen's aides. Guests, some of whom stood for two hours to get a chance to talk to a Queen, filed past the receiving line at the rate of 70 every five minutes. In all, the couple greeted more than 1,300 persons, "the biggest reception, the most handshaking we've had since she became Queen," said a source close to the royal family.

Infant Strangles In His Play Pen

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The coroner's office said today that 18-month-old James Kutschbach, son of a Pittsburgh policeman, strangled when his head became caught between the bars of a play pen.

The boy was staying with an aunt, Margaret Kenny, at nearby Bellevue, when the accident occurred Tuesday. Miss Kenny was caring for James while his mother, Mrs. Alfred Kutschbach, was in a hospital following the birth of another child.

Mayor David L. Lawrence said Tuesday it was only proper the queen should be invited inasmuch as Pittsburgh was named after William Pitt, a British prime minister.

St. Mary's Church Will Welcome New Pastor

The Rev. Andrew D. Parvensky, pastor of St. Mary Greek Catholic Church, will be formally welcomed by members of the parish at a banquet on Sunday, Oct. 27, at the Slovak Home.

Father Parvensky, formerly pastor of St. Eugene's Greek Catholic Church of Cleveland, succeeded the Rev. John Gaspar, who was transferred a few months ago to St. Mary Greek Catholic Church of Manville, N. J.

John Kossar was named general chairman of the banquet committee and will be assisted by several subcommittees including: publicity, Andrew Kossar, chairman, John Demchak and Mary Helon; tickets, George Dzatko, chairman, Agnes Popovich, co-chairman and Henry Dragan; program, Michael Stima, chairman, Leo Lewitsky and Mrs. Gloria Mahalko; reception, Mrs. John Kossar, chairman, Mrs. Andrew Kossar, Mrs. Bertha Patrick and Mrs. George Dzatko.

No Break In Trolley Walkout

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Hopes of an early settlement of a strike by 2,200 trolley and bus operators waned today as the walkout entered its third day.

There was no break in sight in the wage contract negotiations deadlock involving Pittsburgh Railways Company and Division 85, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railways and Motor Coach Employes.

The trolley and bus operators went on strike early Monday, depriving the Pittsburgh district of nearly all its mass public transportation facilities.

Federal mediator G. Harry Young and State Conciliator Joseph Bach conferred on the situation late Tuesday but did not announce any new development. Young flew to Harrisburg after the meeting.

In the only announced move by either side, union leaders scheduled a mass meeting of the membership Thursday to brief it on the contract deadlock.

Traffic Improves

Mayor David L. Lawrence, fearful that business might suffer because of shoppers reluctance to attempt trips to town, emphasized today "the traffic's fine."

Except for peak hours, traffic was better than before the strike, police said.

Car pools were credited with eliminating the threat of large-scale traffic congestion and mass inconvenience.

Indications were that parking garages were doing a below normal business.

H. W. Shepard, president of the Downtown Parking Association, said his garages were only one-half full Tuesday. A spot check of other garages and lots revealed that parking was off from the same date last year.

The Golden Triangle Association, an organization of center-city merchants, set up "courtesy ride stations" through the city in order to assure pedestrians a ride to town.

The union is demanding a wage increase of 36 cents an hour. The company has offered 16 cents. Operators average $2.14 an hour.

The union, during pre-strike negotiations, lowered its demand to 31 cents an hour, but went back to the original 36 cents after the strike began.

REVIEW PLANS FOR SCHOONMAKER PROJECT — Representatives of utility firms yesterday afternoon met with City and Chamber of Commerce officials and state Highways Department engineers and contractors to review the utilities' part in the proposed widening and repaving of Schoonmaker Ave. from near Sixth St. to near 17th St. Shown are Norman Henderson, chairman of Chamber's merchants division; Edgar Shuster, Peoples Natural Gas; Harry Torbert, West Penn Power Co.; Mayor Hugo J. Parente; F. M. Brady, Highways Department; Councilman David Victoria; Charles Darby, Monessen office, Authority of the Boro of Charleroi; George Burkett, engineer for Frank Donatelli Co., general contractors; and R. L. Hardy and J. Lawrence Buchanan, Bell Telephone Co. The contractor expects to start work next week.

Court Decision May Free Two State Reds

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Two Philadelphia men, convicted more than three years ago of being local Communist leaders, appeared today to have won their freedom under a decision handed down by the U. S. Supreme Court last June in the so-called Yates case.

U. S. Attorney Harold K. Wood Tuesday asked the Third Circuit Court of Appeals to direct the acquittal of Walter Lowenfels, 59, a writer for the Daily Worker, and Sherman Labovitz. Both had been sentenced to two years in prison but were free on bonds pending decisions on their appeals.

The government conceded that under the recent Supreme Court ruling it now cannot meet the new standards of required evidence for two of the nine persons convicted.

However, the government said its evidence for the seven others is sufficient to conform to the new rules in Communist cases and asked for new trials. The seven were convicted with Lowenfels and Labovitz in a 71-day trial here in 1954.

Sought Acquittal

All nine had sought directed verdict of acquittal under the Yates ruling which reversed the conviction of 14 West Coast Communists.

The hig court ruled that the evidence submitted at the original West Coast trial did not show that the defendants were advocating an action to overthrow the government by force but merely showed that they advocated a theory.

Four of the seven had been given three year terms.

They are David Dubensky, 49, a former union official; Joseph Kuzman, 35, called a leader of the Communist Party in Pennsylvania; Thomas Nabried, 54, party district organizer, and Sam Gobeloff, 47.

The three others, who were given two-year sentences, are Benjamin Weiss, 32, local party treasurer; Irving (Chick) Katz, 38, and Robert Klonsky, 38.

All of the convicted men were free on bail pending their appeals.

Fayette Co. Legion Working for Bonus

The Fayette County Committee of the American Legion has pledged 100 per cent effort for a favorable vote for the state Korean conflict bonus proposal.

The Constitutional amendment for the bonus will be on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

Some 17 posts are backing the proposal, County Cmdr. John Farris Jr. said.

Columbus Day Dinner Held

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. Quigley, pastor of St. Canice Roman Catholic Church of Knoxville, was guest speaker on Sunday evening at Twin Coaches when Monessen Council, Knights of Columbus held the annual Columbus Day observance.

Covers were laid for 200 Knights and their guests, and serving as toastmaster was Frank Buscanics, of Charleroi.

The musical part of the program was presented by the Donora Catholic War Veterans Chorus. Brief talks were given by Mayor Hugo Parente, Grand Knight Louis Smith and Frank Ciprich, banquet chairman.

New Members Welcomed by Local Rotary

Several new members were welcomed when Monessen Rotary Club met yesterday at noon at Johnson's Restaurant. Each was introduced and called upon to give a brief autobiographical sketch.

They were Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of Monessen schools; Henry Furio, High School principal; Michael Skirpan Jr. of Skirpan Real Estate Agency; Daniel Myshin and Louis L. Manderino, attorneys, and A. E. Wilen, manager of Eisenberg's Department Store.

Various members of the club then spoke briefly about Rotary principles.

Guests at the meeting were John F. Campbell of Monongahela, Robert P. Lutz of Washington, Herbert Krause and Joe Bielski of Charleroi, R. T. Loughman, John K. Gile and Carl Ensley, Pittsburgh and Dr. F. C. Smith, Thomas Malpass and Frank F. Tucci, Belle Vernon.

scheduled to fly out this morning in giant transport planes.

Terrance Roberts, 16, one of the nine integrated Negro students, disclosed Tuesday that he was ready last week to quit and return to Horace Mann (Negro) School.

"I told a bunch of the kids last week that I was ready to quit, but I was mad," he said. "They (white kids) had been giving me a bad time, throwing erasers and saying things in the hall.

"But I'm going back, some time this week, I hope."

Terrance and Melba Patillo, 15, another of the Negroes, skipped school Monday and Tuesday because of flu.

"The only way I'll quit school is for them to pack me out," Melba said. "Whether the troops are there or not, I'm going to school."

Meanwhile, six Little Rock businessmen who are spokesmen for a group that has condemned violence called upon Gov. Orval E. Faubus Tuesday.

Walter C. Guy, chairman of the group, said their talks with Faubus were exploratory.

Says Reds May Send A Rocket to Moon

WASHINGTON (UP)—One of the world's top scientists believes the Russians may land a rocket on the moon some day.

Dr. Lloyd V. Berkner, believes this country "must be prepared" to meet scientific challenges of the future.

Berkner, vice president of the World Committee for the International Geophysical Year (IGY), conceded Russia's speed in getting an artificial moon in the sky before any one else was a surprise.

In view of that accomplishment he is not inclined to discount claims by Soviet spokesmen that they can send a rocket to the moon.

Some Russians have spoken of doing this in the near future. Berkner wouldn't guess at their timetable.

Berkner is president of the Associated Universities, which operates the Atomic Energy Commission's Brookhaven National Laboratory, and is a member of a scientific advisory committee which conferred at the White House Tuesday with President Eisenhower.

Some U.S. satellite scientists have expressed fear the Russians' advance secrecy about Sputnik meant they weren't capable of cooperating wholeheartedly in a world undertaking like IGY. Berkner did not agree.

He said that upon launching their moon the Russians promptly "gave out the relevant information" about its orbit.

"We had never agreed," he said, "to let them witness our launchings or to announce our launching times in advance. Nor did they."

Berkner said Sputnik is proving to be a valuable scientific tool for what it tells about air pressure high up and for the information the behavior of its orbit gives.

Adolph R. Presker, 45, New Kensington, and Walter F. Sobotka, 29, Tarentum, died Monday from pneumonia.

At least three colleges in the state have closed their doors in the wake of flu outbreaks. Washington and Jefferson College at Washington, Pa., closed until Monday. Lycoming College at Williamsport sent students home until Oct. 23 and Lehigh University, Bethlehem, suspended classes until Oct. 28 as a precautionary measure.

Meanwhile, several stricken areas reported absenteeism was dropping back slowly at schools, business concerns and industrial plants.

Allegheny County authorities listed 15,000 absentees in the public schools, the lowest since Oct. 2. About 21,000 parochial school pupils were away from classes in the county, with seven parochial schools still shut down.

Trailers Can Be Banned on 'Pike

HARRISBURG (UP)—State police today had authority to ban house trailers from the Pennsylvania Turnpike system during adverse weather conditions.

The Turnpike Commission late Tuesday adopted the recommendation of its safety staff that troopers have the right to determine movements of the trailers. The resolution said that if trailers get by a toll gate during unfavorable weather, the state police may order them to go off the road at the nearest convenient interchange.

The meeting was the first since the appointment of two new commissioners — former Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler and E James Trimarchi Jr., Indiana County Democratic chairman. Lawler was named vice chairman and Commissioner John F. Byrne was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Valley Realtors in Dinner Meeting

Monongahela Valley Real Estate Board held a dinner meeting last night at the Charleroi Elks Club. Representing Monessen was Charles Penwick of Hibbs Agency.

J. J. Cronin of Washington, D. C., National Real Estate Board field representative, was principal speaker. He discussed substandard housing.

Realtors from Belle Vernon, Bentleyville, Charleroi, Donora and Uniontown also attended.

Defends County Chairmen on State Payroll

HARRISBURG (UP) — Democratic State Chairman Joseph M. Barr said today an "incomplete" survey indicated at least 26 Republican county chairmen were on the state payroll during the administration of former Gov. John S. Fine.

Barr's statement apparently was prompted by recent reports that 39 Democratic county chairmen currently are employed by the Commonwealth.

"The names of many other Republican county chairmen may be buried deep in the files of the state payroll," Barr said. "I am sure that no one, Democrat or Republican, has any objection to county chairmen being on a state payroll—just as long as they do their job and do it the way it should be done."

Ex-Scottdale Man Dies in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Funeral services were conducted here Tuesday for Lee Goldenson, 80, former merchant at Scottdale, Westmoreland County, Pa., who died Sunday at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital after a long illness.

Goldenson, born in Greensburg, Pa., was in business in Scottdale for half a century. He operated a clothing store and also had an interest in two motion picture theaters. He moved to the West Coast after his retirement seven years ago.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters and a son, Leonard H. Goldenson, president of American Broadcasting - Paramount Theaters, Inc.

Stocks Selling Off Again Today

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks encountered selling here and there at the opening today.

The offerings generally were small and net changes for the most part held to fractions.

Minor declines came into U.S. Steel, Wheeling Steel, Alcoa, Ford, RCA on 1,500 shares, International Nickel, Reynolds Metals, Baltimore & Ohio, Anaconda, Loew's on 2,500 shares, and Douglas Aircraft.

Lukens Steel and Eastman Kodak lost a full point each among the wider changes. Chrysler, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Republic Steel, Boeing Airplane, Reynolds Tobacco B, and Pennsylvania Railroad held steady.

Small gains appeared in United Aircraft, General Tire, Monsanto Chemical on 1,600 shares, American Smelting, American Cyanamid, American Telephone, Crucible Steel, Southern Railway, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line, Standard Oil of California, Great Northern, and General Motors.

Dangerous Rivalry

THE AMERICAN people have had reason in the past to be disturbed by signs, of which there have been many, that the nation's armed forces have failed to achieve the cooperation among the services contemplated by the acts of Congress.

But it seems to us that it becomes urgently necessary, for reasons that are being spread across the country's front pages. that interservice rivalry be ended and ended promptly.

The Eisenhower administration is telling the public that this rivalry has not interfered with the progress of the missile program. But much as we would like to believe that, there is strong evidence that the contrary is true.

Civilians have difficulty understanding these rivalries and jealousies among the services. They seem so juvenile. What possible difference can it make, after all, whether a man wears a blue uniform or a khaki one if his job is to defend his country? Doesn't that job require him to cooperate without reservation with all others who have the same basic duty?

It has been suggested that the separation of the services should be completely abolished, that there should be one uniform and one system of command. This was fully debated at the time the unification acts were passed, and the decision of Congress was that the country would be better served by maintaining separate services for land, sea and air but integrating them more fully than had been the case previously.

This decision may still be valid. We're inclined to think it is, for a variety of reasons.

But we think the country has a right to expect that those in the armed forces, from high rank to low, will put aside their silly and dangerous rivalries. And we should expect, too, that the President and commander-in-chief insists upon this — or else.

Meeting a Need

BY A SIMPLE action on election day, Nov. 5, the registered voters of Monessen can fill one of the essential needs of any modern community.

This action is to vote "Yes" on the proposed $200,000 bond issue to provide a new municipal library.

A city can have the best possible streets and sewers; it can have good parks; it can have adequate police and fire protection, refuse removal and all the other services we regard as routine and essential. But if that city lacks an adequate public library, it is not yet a city worth living in.

Any reader who may think we are putting this a trifle strongly ought to think again. He ought to ask himself what makes civilizations — and communities — great. Is it just convenience and comfort? Or gadgets? Obviously not.

Nations and communities and individuals develop as their understanding and knowledge develop. And this inevitably means good schools, public libraries, and cultural opportunities such as modern American cities now provide as a matter of routine.

Monessen is late in getting a good public library. By rights, this should have been one of the first steps of the city's founders.

But this is certainly one instance in which late is better than never. A favorable vote on the library bond issue will put in motion a plan designed to fill this primary community need and to fill it in a manner that will make the people of Monessen proud for many years to come.

The facts of the library project are being made readily available to the voters. Those who study them will agree, we think, that the plans have been worked out with care and deserve public support.

We hope there will be an overwhelming "Yes" vote on the library question on Nov. 5.

The Transit Strike

THE TRANSIT strike in Pittsburgh is another forceful reminder of the price we pay in this country for our personal and group liberties.

One of these liberties, of course, is the right to strike. And most Americans are prepared to pay a heavy price to have this right preserved.

This makes it all the more necessary, then, that such rights be exercised with the greatest caution by all who enjoy them. They must never forget that the public interest comes before any and all private interests.

A case can be made, we believe, for forbidding strikes in essential public services and providing other machinery for the settlement of labor-management disputes. Many states already do this. Pennsylvania outlaws strikes by municipal employes and school teachers.

Lawmakers are reluctant to impose such restrictions, and they should be. But in any conflict between the public interest and private interests, the former must prevail.

A transit strike creates such a situation. And those responsible for such a strike must be careful to use the weapon only in the most extreme circumstances.

Merry-Go-Round—

Washington In Flurry Over Queen

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Harry Truman is one of the few to turn down an invitation to Queen Elizabeth's reception in Washington. Official reason: Previous engagement. Unofficially, Truman has confided to friends that he was so charmed by the Queen as a princess that he wants to remember her that way — Truman's famous off-the-cuff toast to Elizabeth in 1951 was: "When I was a little boy I read about the fairy princess and here she is." — The Queen's visit was originally planned to give a lift to sagging Anglo-American friendship and British prestige in the U.S.A. Now, thanks to Sputnik and Russia's ICBM, it looks as if it's American prestige that needs bolstering. . . .Prime Minister Harold MacMillan is so worried, not only about U.S. prestige, but Allied prestige, that he has offered to fly to the United State immediately to confer with Eisenhower regarding Russian scientific progress. MacMillan had planned to confer with Ike next winter when the President is tentatively scheduled to return the Queen's call. But now he considers the Russian advances so serious that he has sent word he's ready to fly to Washington any time Ike says the word.

British Worries — British Embassy experts who have been staying up nights trying to figure all the kinks that might occur during Her Majesty's visit, at first were worried over the Queen's greeting the ambassadors of Nationalist China and Egypt. England does not have relations with these two countries, so officially she could not receive them. Here is how they solved the impasse: Canada recognizes Egypt, and the Queen is Empress of Canada. Therefore she can officially receive the Egyptian ambassador. . Also Australia recognizes Nationalist China, and the Queen is Empress of Australia; so she can greet the Chinese Nationalist Ambassador, witty Hollington Tong. . It's likely that the Australian ambassador, Sir Percy Spender, will stand with Her Majesty when she greets the Chinese, and the Canadian ambassador when she greets the Egyptian. . .The idea that the dominions are topdogs in the British Empire is being so emphasized that Australian Ambassador Spender, who outranks British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia, will be more prominent in the festivities than Caccia. To those who knew the old British Embassy in the days when its invitation was more coveted than one from the White House this is revolutionary.

Another Harry Truman?

It will be drowned out in the salutes and salaams to Queen Elizabeth, but a question reaching into the vitals of American government comes up for decision tomorrow. It's whether the independent government agencies, created by Congress and answerable to Congress, shall be required to show their files to Congress.

The man who will pose this question may become another Harry Truman — if he sticks to his guns and wins his battle. He is congressman Morgan Moulder, a Missourian who, like Truman, is chairman of a committee appointed to investigate agencies which have become the most powerful in Washington.

These commissions, such as the Federal Power Commission, Communications Commission, Interstate Commerce, Civil Aeronautics, Securities and Exchange, have the power to award priceless TV licenses, fix rail rates, award airplane routes worth millions, and police the stock market. They are not responsible directly to the White House, yet they have claimed immunity from complete congressional scrutiny.

At the urging of Speaker Sam Rayburn, a committee headed by Moulder has now been set up to investigate them. However, the chairmen of the seven agencies got together at a private lunch at the University Club, where they decided to buck the probe by refusing to permit inspecting of their files.

Some Republicans, led by hard-working John Bennett of Michigan, have sided with Moulder in demanding a showdown. When the showdown comes tomorrow, however, you can bet that Rep. Oren Harris, great friend of the big airlines, himself part-owner of a TV station, will side with the agencies.

It's a Fact—

Approximately 300 thousand tons of material were used in the construction of the Empire State building.

The only United States President who lived to see his son become President was John Adams.

A hurricane will release 200 to 300 times as much energy as the early type atomic bomb.

Moonlight and Roses

From Paris—

NATO Unscared by Satellite

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

PARIS — There's one thing for sure, the Supreme Headquarters of NATO is not being in the least panicked by Russia's hurtling earth-satellite or by its much-proclaimed new hydrogen warhead.

Mr. Drummond

If Moscow hopes to undermine NATO by scaring its member nations, as it has often tried to do, there is no sign here that either the political leadership or the military leadership of NATO is being bowled over by these developments.

Any correspondent who has talked with Paul Henri Spaak, Secretary General of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Gen. Lauris Norstad, knows how NATO will answer the threats which, in the wake of its "baby moon" and latest hydrogen tests, the Soviet government put into "Pravda" this past week.

West Stands Firm

To "Pravda's" latest warning that, with the earth-satellite "exploding the myth of Russian technical backwardness," the West must now accept the Soviet version of disarmament and "peaceful co-existence." Kremlin-style-NATO's answer is, it can be said with knowledge, an unequivocal and unintimidated "No."

The council of ministers of the 15 NATO countries stood solidly behind the American, British and French position during the London talks and that is where it stands today: No disarmament without inspection and precautions against surprise attack, no ending of nuclear tests without ending the production of nuclear weapons.

As to "peaceful co-existence" Western Europe looks at Hungary and wonders when it is going to begin.

Not that the NATO chiefs belittle the meaning of Soviet scientific achievements. These testify to the high quality of Soviet scientists, great engineering skill and the determination of the Kremlin to put arms ahead of butter.

Spraak Confident

But a few weeks ago when Moscow rattled the hydrogen bomb over the heads of the Norwegians and warned that they had better get out of NATO and spurn all offers of atomic weapons — or else — little Norway neither budged or quavered. It firmly told the Kremlin that it would remain in NATO and that Norway, obviously no military threat to Russia would decide for itself what weapons were best for its own defense.

Mr. Spaak, NATO's highest civil servant with far more than a civil servant's prestige and influence, is confident that the Soviets do not possess the "ultimate weapon" and that they will not possess it unless the West gives it to them. The ultimate weapon would be allied disunity and today NATO is stronger politically and militarily than ever.

NATO must always meet two requirements to fulfill its mission to deter war and to defend its members from possible attack:

1—Sufficient combat-ready, divisions of infantry, equipped with tactical atomic arms, to make any Soviet attack from Norway to Turkey thoroughly uninviting. It is uninviting today. It needs to be made more uninviting.

2—The presence of American and British divisions on the continent as tangible assurance that an attack on one NATO nation will mean instant defense by all.

Norstad's Concept

Gen. Norstad's concept of the defense of the NATO-Soviet line is not any "plate glass" or "trip-hammer" symbolic defense. His argument seems to me to make sense. He puts it this way:

"If this line were not held, or were held only thinly, an opportunistic aggressor might be tempted to cross it and thereby confront us of the West with an accomplished fact and with the fateful decision whether to try to expel him. If we failed to try, we would default our solemn commitments, and that could be the end of the alliance. If we did try, it would be argued that we were the first to use force, and the terrible responsibility for starting the war would fall to us.

"But, say our forward line is defended along its more than 4,000 miles and defended in such strength that considerable force would be required to break through it. Then the decision to use force first, with all its fateful implications, would be the aggressor's. Because such a decision would precipitate the avalanche of our retaliatory forces, it is inconceivable that he would take it without due thought. Hence a shield able to hold even momentarily would discourage action either headlong or opportunistic.'

Twice in this century American military forces have been in Western Europe in time of war. Now, for the first time in history, American forces are in Europe in time of peace to preserve the peace. This is what may keep America and the free world out of war. This is why Gen. Norstad says that the presence of U. S., British and Canadian troops in Europe with those of the European nations, are a steady reminder to the Russians that any aggression will instantly bring down on them the total power of the Alliance.

No wonder NATO is the No. 1 target of Soviet foreign policy and its dissolution its No. 1 objective.

Make Moon a Target, Scientist Suggests

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—With that 184 - pound thing wending a wobbly orbit over our heads like a worry - wart moon, the wave of the future seems to be beeping toward us at a faster rate than it did in ante-Sputnik days.

And ideas are spouting fast for the out-of-this-world days ahead.

One of the most intriguing of these came from an American scientist attending the recent International Astronautical Congress in Barcelona.

Why not, he suggested, make the moon an international bullseye?

Tests on Moon

His plan was for the powers of the earth to test their hydrogen bombs on the moon, which presumably couldn't be any more fouled up than it already is—with its face pocked with craters and no life showing on its bald pate.

The competing powers would develop interplanetary ballistic missiles with H-bomb race would turn into a contest to see who could make the biggest splotch in the moonglow.

There is the hint of a suggestion here that war in the future could be reduced to an international shooting match, with the winner being the country that makes the biggest moon - crater. It's a nice thought, but it won't work. Who would be the umpire? Even if we got some Martian to stay on his planet and do the job, it wouldn't work. Too much danger of the loser turning his fire on Mars.

A more feasible plan would be the use of a dead heavenly body for a dumping ground for radioactive atomic waste. The disposal of this deadly poisonous stuff will pose a real problem in the nuclear - energetic future. The earth and its seas can become polluted through carelessness.

The moon — if, indeed, it is utterly lifeless—would then as a dumping ground become eternally lifeless and as much to be avoided by space travelers as if it exuded an overpowering green cheese odor. "Off limits to tourists" would be its inter - stellar highway warning, and its only visitors would be the lead-shielded workers on the space garbabe-scows from earth.

Travel to Planets

Of course, you can say that the enthusiasts among the rocketry scientists can't be serious when they talk of human space travel between planets, and of course that's what people said about Columbus and Magellan in their time. "Reaching for the moon" may become an obsolete and meaningless saying before the century's end.

Meantime life whirls along lightly, and today a fellow earthling who works in our office skipped in to work whistling a peculiar little melody that constantly repeated a refrain: three monotone peep - like notes followed by a wolf whistle.

To those who stared curiously at him he explained: "That's Sputnik, going by Venus."

The Views of Others—

County Democrats Are Avoiding the Issues

(From the Valley Daily News, Tarentum)

Most of the Democratic rallies in Westmoreland County these days are more like love feasts than political gatherings.

The hand-picked underlings of Boss Arthur (Buddy) Turner whose names will appear on the ballot Nov. 5 get up and tell what fine fellows they are. Each heaps oceans of praise on the others. They are loving husbands and fathers. They go to church every Sunday. They are good community men. Each says, in effect, that he is proud of all the others and would not care to win if they could not win, too.

So much sweetness and light you never saw before.

But no thoughtful people are impressed. Rather they know they are being taken for a ride by as clever a band of politicians as has appeared on the Westmoreland scene in many a day.

Voters do not go to the meetings to be told about church attendance records of the candidates and to hear about what tender husbands and dads they are. They want to hear the issues of the campaign.

But the Democratic candidates are not discussing the issues. They are ignoring them like a plague. They're ready to talk at the drop of the hat on almost any other subject under the sun. And there's a good reason.

The moment they get into issues, the records of those who are now in office will automatically come up. And not one candidate, now holding office, dares to stake his candidacy on his record, once the people know it. And more of them are learning the ugly facts every day.

Judge Bauer, for example, would have a hard time explaining why he has been so lenient with racketeers who have been convicted in his court.

District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco can never explain to the satisfaction of any sane person why during the eight years he served in that office he made no earnest effort to deal with organized crime and big-time racketeering.

The same goes for Judge David H. Weiss who was an assistant to him. It is true, too, of Earl S. Keim, candidate for district attorney, and also a Sculco assistant.

The Democratic candidates are up to their knees in their own political hokum. Their hearers are getting tired of it. They want to get down to brass tacks and hear about the issues and there are some mighty big and terrible ones in Westmoreland.

But no lackey of Buddy Turner is in position to talk about issues without getting into a mess of trouble.

Quotes from the News

By UNITED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK —Negro leader L. C. Bates, saying that he understands Negro children are gradually being accepted at Central High School:

"It just comes down to what we have always felt. The kids are the future citizens. They can get together and the more they get to know each other, the better citizens they can become."

OTTAWA — Queen Elizabeth, in admitting that royal life has its dull moments:

"There are long periods when life seems a small dull round, a petty business with no point and then suddenly we are caught up in some great event which gives us a glimpse of the solid and durable foundations of our existence."

WASHINGTON — Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), in calling for broad new programs to train scientists:

"Recent revelations of Soviet scientific advances should awaken all Americans to a renewed realization that this country has no corner on the brains of the world."

CHICAGO — James T. Mangan, self-styled owner of all space, in offering to turn his "property" over to the United States:

"I want to save the nation's face in the satellite race."

TOKYO — Adio Dohi, Japanese student who was among at least 54 persons injured when famed Mount Mihara on Oshima Island near Tokyo erupted as scores of sightseers were viewing the crater:

"Suddenly I felt a rain of fire falling on me and I tried to run away. I ran desperately but it was difficult to see my way because of the thick smoke."

CLEVELAND — Dr. Gaines M. Cook, executive secretary of the International Convention of Disciples of Christ, in calling for Christian missions in underprivileged areas of the world:

"It is as futile to isolate ourselves as Christians as it is for us to live in isolation as nations. The tragedy of Hungary has been heard in every African village."

HERMOSA BEACH, Calif. — Mrs. Rosaline O'Keefe, the housewife who offered her airplane-riding rabbit to the government to get the jump on a Russian dog reported ready to ride the next Soviet satellite:

"'Crusader' rode a plane from Texas to Hollywood without batting an ear. He would prove that American animals are superior to Russian animals as space-riders."

County Federation To Meet Tomorrow

Westmoreland County Federation of Women's Clubs will meet for the annual fall session tomorrow at Mountain View Hotel, Greensburg. It is expected that the all day event will attract hundreds of clubwomen.

Along with Monessen and district club members, who will be attending the session, the area will be represented on the program. The Harmonettes, a vocal trio composed of Mrs. Alvin Frick, Mrs. Ray Michaux and Mrs. Robert Caldwell will present the music for the day. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Lily Anderson.

Two Officers

The clubwomen will be greeting two outstanding federation officers, Mrs. Woodrow R. Mattern, State Federation president, and Mrs. H. Everett Sanford, vice president of the Southwest District of the State Federation.

Mrs. Mattern will address the session and will then be honored at a tea following the business session. A resident of McClure, Mrs. Mattern served as first vice president at large and membership chairman of the federation during the past administration. She is a graduate of Juniata College and has done graduate work at Pennsylvania State University. While a teacher in Huntingdon, she was a member of the Civic Club. She has served as president of the McClure Women's Club, vice president and president of the Snyder County Federation, and vice president of the North Central District of the State Federation.

Many Activities

Mrs. Mattern is also associated with many other organizations and serves as a member of the Commonwealth Committee of the Women's Medical College in Philadelphia. She is in the Woman's Auxiliary of Susquehanna University in the McClure area; serves on the board of directors of the Snyder County Cancer Society; the Snyder County Child Welfare Advisory Board; and the Snyder County Board of Assistance. She also takes an active part in church work. Her pet project is Women's Medical College, a project supported by all state federated clubs.

The proceeds of a summer theatre party, $363, will be presented to Mrs. Mary Thompson, president of the Westmoreland Chapter of the Pennsylvania Association of Retarded Children, for this project. Mrs. Carroll Phares was chairman of the fund raising event.

Other Speakers

Dr. Eugene T. Bertin, associate secretary of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, nationally known author and lecturer, will also address the group. Another speaker will be Mrs. Vee Toner, coach of one of the girl Olympic teams this past year, who will tell of her experience abroad.

Mrs. William G. Hoehl, president of the County Federation, will call the session to order at 10 a. m. following registration at 9:30 o'clock.

Luncheon will be served during the noon intermission.

Civic Recreation Center Now Open

Monessen's Civic Center recreational facilities are now open to the public after a week's delay due to the flu epidemic . . . Originally set to open last Monday, the opening was delayed until yesterday when the public was invited to take advantage of the facilities of the gymnasium and game room which is open daily from 4 until 6 o'clock in the evening and again from 7 until 9 o'clock at night . . . Saturday hours are 9.30 in the morning until 1:30 in the afternoon . . . Recreation Department Director Thomas D'Errico reports a full schedule of events . . . Men's swimming classes will start Thursday from 7 until 9 o'clock at the Junior High School pool

Bob (Red) Worrell, Centerville's fabulous back of last season, will start for the Penn State frosh against Pitt's yearlings Saturday. Also in the Nittany Lion freshmen starting array will be Henry Opperman of Connellsville. His father was instrumental in Johnny Lujack ending up at Notre Dame where he became an all-time great . . . Lew Burdette's three victories in the World Series gave him the honor of being only the seventh major leaguer in 54 years to accomplish the feat . . . Last time it was duplicated was in 1946 when Harry Brecheen of the Cards posted triple wins. The other five also claiming such an accomplishment were Stan Coveleski (1920); Urban Faber (1917); Jack Coombs (1910); Babe Adams (1909) and Christy Mathewson (1905).

Flu Even Snafus 'Guesspert' Contest

That doggone flu epidemic has even gone so far as to affect The Daily Independent's football contest. In the first few weeks of the contest, the emphasis was placed on high school games but after last week's experience when only one tilt on the entry blank was played it was decided to list only college and professional encounters this week . . . All of those battles listed on last week's chart were played . . . Those in charge of the operation of the contest didn't want it this way but were forced to make such an adjustment . . . At least the outcome of the college and pro games isn't so uncertain as high school games in this rivalry-ridden Monongahela Valley, so that's a break for you contestants.

Nearsightedness cost West Point an outstanding gridder and is Notre Dame glad. That football warrior is none other than Monty Sickles, the lad who booted that 32-yard field goal for the Irish to beat Army Saturday. He once had his heart set on attending the Military Academy . . . He lived nearby and attended high school in the vicinity of West Point but when he went for a physical examination after earning an appointment to the Academy he was found to be nearsighted and couldn't pass the rigid exam . . . Incidentally, the ruling on field goal distance in college ball is from the line line of scrimmage plus 10 yards (for the end zone width). So, with the ball on the 22, Sickles' kick is credited as being a 32-yard kick and not a 29-yarder from where he stood when booting the oval.

Rostraver Band at Pitt Game

Rostraver High School's band performed at the Pitt-Nebraska game Saturday and was well received with several selecuons and maneuvers . . . The flu even hit the "Band Day" program in which the Leopards participated with only 12 of the 25 invited bands being able to attend . . . Charleroi High's band was affected as it was noticed at last week's Ambridge game with large "holes" in the marching ranks especially the tuba section with only one "big horn" manipulator on hand . . . Chairman Sam Fiorino of the Allenport Plant Employes Recreation League of Pittsburgh Steel has announced the annual APERL banquet for Tuesday, Oct. 22 . . . Monessen Softball Umpires' Association members will be invited guests.

Today's Sports Parade—

Fraley Picks Army Over Pitt Panthers

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fraley's follies and the weekend football "winners"—as the teams head down the backstretch with no holds barred.

Game of the Week

Oregon over Washington State — This is a battle which will do much toward deciding who goes to the Rose Bowl. Oregon is the pick on a steel-corseted defense which has yielded only two touchdowns in four games.

The East.

Penn over Brown—In good form

Yale over Cornell—Should be close

Army over Pitt — Blue plate special.

Columbia over Harvard — Recent surprise winner

Also: Dartmouth over Holy Cross, Penn State over Vanderbilt, Princeton over Colgate, Boston College over Villanova and Rutgers over Lehigh

The South

Navy over Georgia — Looms stout contender.

Miami over N.C. State — Be battling to end.

Mississippi over Tulane — Merits preference

Duke over Wake Forest — Can turn it on

Also: Georgia Tech over Auburn, North Carolina over Maryland, LSU over Kentucky, Florida over Mississippi State, Tennessee over Alabama, West Virginia over George Washington and W. & M over VMI.

The Southwest

Texas Aggies over TCU — Can prove tough foe

Rice over SMU — Stretch battle

Baylor over Texas Tech — Can do better

Texas over Arkansas — Fit and ready.

Also: Tulsa over North Texas State, Hardin Simmons over Wichita and Oklahoma State over Houston.

The Midwest

Michigan State over Purdue—Logical choice.

Minnesota over Illinois — Last was excellent

Iowa over Wisconsin — Top effort needed.

Oklahoma over Kansas — One best.

Also: Michigan over Northwestern, Nebraska over Syracuse, Ohio State over Indiana, Missouri over Iowa State, Marquette over Cincinnati and Kansas State over Colorado

The West

USC over California — Not out of it

Oregon State over UCLA — Always a threat.

Stanford over Washington — Be closing stoutly.

New Mexico over Arizona—Can prove troublesome.

Also: Utah over Denver, Idaho over COP, Utah State over Montana and Wyoming over Brigham Young.

Jefferson Wallops Lincoln, 39 to 14

'Hounds Over Flu But Weakened

Frank-Lin Repeats Earlier Victory Over Vocational

Jefferson's Midget gridders, especially halfback Eric Crabtree, put on quite a show at Greyhound Stadium here last night as the league-leaders almost clinched the 1957 league title with a 39-14 win over Lincoln.

Frank-Lin, meanwhile served notice it wasn't quite out of the race yet with a 13-0 triumph over Vocational.

New Scoring Mark

Crabtree put on one of the finest displays of running witnessed by Midget Leaguers and set a new league mark with his 30 points on five touchdowns to lead his mates

The flashy back scored minutes after the game opened following a Lincoln fumble with a 35-yard pitch-out TD. Billy Runfola tacking on the extra point with a run.

After that Crabtree chalked up scores on a 65-yard kickoff return, a 55-yard dash a 50-yard jaunt and one for 56 yards near the end of the game on a lateral from Quarterback Eric Steele. Runfola added the other Jefferson TD on a 44-yard run following a pitchout from Steele He also added the four extra points on ground plays

Lincoln scoring was accounted for by fullback Frank Destefano and halfback Stanley Hardin. Destefano's on a plunge from five yards out. Hardin on a 30 yard run Hardin also added an extra point, Allen Grant running over with the 14th marker

Finally Break Ice

Vocational and Frank-Lin locked in a tight defensive battle for almost three quarters before Frank-Lin broke the 0-0 knot with Quarterback Billy Tweardy's 10 yard charge up the middle to climax a drive of 55 yards late in the third period

Fullback Gerry Francia dashed 48 yards on a beautiful play for the 12-0 count with Francia also chalking up the extra point for the final 13 0 tally

A 37-yard scamper by halfback Bob Beveredge in the first half was called back due to clipping penalty.

A meeting of league officers will now decide on extending the schedule with Frank-Lin and Lincoln still having an outside chance to catch the perfect record Jeffs

Aldrich Returns to Drills; Redstone's Team Young, Fast

"We're healthy again but a little weak", Monessen High grid coach Armand Niccolai announced today as he continued preparing his squad for Friday night's clash with Redstone here

Niccolai stated that about the only doubtful players were 200-pound tackle Vince Pascarella and Tom Churan, regular center Pascarella has a touch of the flu, Churan is still nursing a leg injury suffered in the Uniontown game.

Some good news came Niccolai's way, however, with the possibility of regular tackle 'Bobo' Aldrich who has been out since the first game of the eason returning to practice Andy Carolla understudy fullback to Carl Ratay is also back in action

Flu Bug Again

Meanwhile the word from Redstone is that the situation is still a little shaky with some first stringers recovering from the flu trying to shake off the effects in time for the game

Coach Joe Bosnic starts a team which shows two freshmen and two sophomores as he looks ahead to next year but can still make it mighty rugged for anybody taking him slightly this season

One of the frosh players is Fred Mazurek a 170-pound quarterback, while Don Croftcheck a 165-pound guard, and Frank Middleton who plays the guard position opposite Croftcheck are also first year players

Four veterans are back in tackles Jonn DeSimone 190 and Gary Meloni, 195 and backs Lou DeSimone, 165 and Ralph Grooms 175

Officials word is expected today from Redstone on whether the 'Hawks will definitely be ready to play Friday

Monessen Juniors at Charleroi Tonight

Monessen and Charleroi Junior High Schools meet at Charleroi tonight in the game that usually makes or breaks the season for both teams Game time is 7.30 o'clock at the Cougar Stadium

The Little Cougars of Coach George Chacko are working on a 20-game winning streak with Monessen the last team to defeat them in a 6-0 game way back in 1953 Since then only one tie has blemished the Chackomen's record and again it was Monessen responsible for the black mark a 6-6 game in 1954

Pacing the host team tonight will be Bob Mastronicola, 160-pound fullback, who played tackle last season He paced the Little Cougars to a 34-0 win over North Union in the opener and a 24-0 triumph over Washington

The locals opened with a 13-6 victory over Brownsville's juniors with Steve Bewszka showing the way with two TDs

Chacko will start a team showing Carmella and Treater at ends, Douglas and Chew at tackles Manzini and Hughes at guards, Hugh McBurnie at center with a back field of Bob Abbot Mastroicola and Billy Zaph.

Charleroi has a 14-game unbeaten streak to protect since that 6-6 tie.

Coach Al Romasco will go with the same starters as in the first game for the locals.

Stoneham Making Fast-moving Plans For New Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Horace Stoneham moved into his second day of residency in San Francisco today with new and fast-moving plans for the future of the Giants.

Stoneham was expected to explain plans at an afternoon press conference.

Stoneham set the pace Tuesday when he:

—Traded his Minneapolis American Association franchise to the Boston Red Sox for the San Francisco Seals franchise in the Pacific Coast League.

—Hired Jerry Donovan, for the past two years president of the seals in the Red Sox chain, to work for him in an undisclosed capacity.

—Received a bundle of 600 season ticket applications from the Seals headquarters.

The Minneapolis-San Francisco swap was for the franchises and territories, only, with the Giants tossing in a bundle of cash. The Giants will transfer their Minneapolis players to Seal contracts, and the Red Sox will take their Seal farm-hands to Minneapolis.

"We hope to operate the Seals at some new site in the Pacific Coast League," said Stoneham we will go wherever the PCL wants us to."

Terry Brennan UP 'Coach of Week'

By ED SAINSBURY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., (UP) — He's a true-green Irishman married to a Kelley, yet he refused to inaugurate his first spring practice on the traditional St. Patrick's day because it was too cold.

He's a lawyer who doesn't practice but makes sure his players do.

He was a football player at nine, a college starter at 17, a schoolboy coach at 20 and got the most glamorous college coaching job at 25.

He's Terence Patrick (Terry) Brennan, the United Press Coach of the Week after the dramatic 23-21 victory of his flu - bitten Notre Dame team over old rival Army.

Best Flu First

"I though we'd really be in trouble after all those boys got the flu," Brennan said today. "Why, the student body had so many sick that we had beds in the hallways of the infirmary and had to have a temperature of 102 to get in. But the boys just wouldn't quit, that's all."

The last time Army and Notre Dame met—in 1947—19 year-old halfback Terry Brennan zipped 97 yards for a touchdown with the opening kickoff to touch off an Irish victory.

This time, Brennan faced a lot more pressure. Ever since he succeeded Frank Leahy four years ago, critics and opposing teams alike have waited to pounce on him. They had a field day when the 1956 Irish, green in experience as well as uniform, won only two games.

The Notre Dame administration supported Terry to the limit and the victory over Army made the Monday morning quarterbacks as silent as Calvin Coolidge.

Father Was No Star

Hard work and ambition are Brennan trademarks. Terry, son of a former Notre Dame star and brother of three former college players, won seven letters in football and track at Marquette High in Milwaukee. Then came four years as Notre Dame's "bread-and-butter" runner.

After graduation, Terry became coach of Mt. Carmel high in Chicago and won an unprecedented three straight league titles. He also found time to teach two subjects and spent his nights earning a law degree at DePaul university. In 1953, he became an assistant coach at Notre Dame and got the big job the following year.

Uses Firm Hand

Despite his youth, Terry controls his players with a firm hand. Once, his Mt. Carmel players sneaked out of training camp at night for a sundae and soda orgy. Brennan solved that by calling a long, surprise calisthenics drill when the boys got back They behaved after that.

Notre Dame doesn't play this week, which makes Brennan happy because "I know we can whip the open date. We're two touchdowns better."

After that on successive weekends come Pittsburgh, Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma, Iowa, Southern California and Southern Methodist.

"It's enough to frighten anyone," Brennan conceded, and no one will dispute that. "I don't know what would make a great season, but we'll do our best to get one."

Rip Engle Grooms Sophomore Gaye For Halfback Slot

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) —Sophomore Eddie Caye was being groomed by Penn State coach Rip Engle today to take over the right halfback duties for Saturday's homecoming clash with Vanderbilt.

Engle's No. 1 and No. 2 right halfbacks, Andy Moconyi and Fran Paolone, were ailing. Moconyi was hospitalized with a severe cold. Paolone was hampered by a knee injury.

Caye, an 180-pounder from Pittsburgh, has seen little action to jiz⁵gNGLE HOPES HE CAN FILL the gap, at least on a part-time basis Saturday.

makes its first appearance at Beaver Field. He said that on the basis of scouting reports—Vandy sports a big, fast backfield "similar to Army's."

"And my scouts tell me that Vanderbilt is the surprise team of the South" Engle said. "But I believe we may be on our way now since my second team has begun to take shape."

Pirates Purchase Two From Stars

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today the purchase of pitcher Curt Raydon and first baseman R. C. Stevens from their Hollywood farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Raydon, a 24-year-old righthander from Bloomington, Ill., had a 10-10 record for the Stars last season. In 169 innings he gave up 147 hits, 57 walks and struck out 137 for an earned run average of 3.30.

Stevens, 23, Mountrie, Ga., split last season between Hollywood and the Columbus Jets of the International League. In 76 games with Hollywood he hit .225 and had 11 homers. In 59 games with Columbus he compiled a .299 mark with eight homers.

Moore-Spieser to Sign for Title Go

DTEROIT, (UP) — Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore and Chuck Spieser are scheduled to sign Oct. 23 for their January title fight in Detroit.

Negotiations got beyond the talking stage Tuesday when Spieser's backers posted $10,000 with the Michigan Boxing Commission as the down payment on their $100,000 guarantee to Moore.

Charley Johnston, Moore's manager of record, telephoned the commission Tuesday to say the terms were agreeable to Moore and him and followed up with a telegram to the same effect.

Moving Day for Many Big League Players Today

By UNITED PRESS

It was "moving" day in the major leagues today, with several former big leaguers returning for another chance and others beginning the long road back to the minors.

Stan Palys, who led the Southern Association with a .359 batting mark last season, was purchased by the Cincinnati Redlegs, who gave up shortstop Bobby Durnbaugh and pitchers John Oldham and Jim Brechin to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League in exchange for the out-fielder-first baseman. Palys first broke into the majors with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1954.

Jim Greengrass, who formerly played for the Redlegs and Phillies, was purchased from Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League by the Detroit Tigers.

Walt Carddock and Pay Herbert, both with Buffalo of the International League, were purchased by the parent Kansas City Athletics, who gave up on both in previous trials.

In other moves, the A's sent catcher Bill Shantz, left - hander Gene Host and the right-handed Al Aber, 30, also of former Tiger, to Buffalo and second baseman Curt Roberts to Denver of the American Association as part of last summer's big deal with the New York Yankees.

Nippy Jones, 32, whose celebrated "shoe shine" led to Milwaukee's fourth game, 7-5 victory over the Yankees in this year's World Series, was sent to Wichita of the American Association by the Braves, who called up infielder Joe Morgan from Atlanta of the Southern Association.

Corky Valentine, 27, and Red Murff, 35, both of whom saw little action with the Braves, were sent to Wichita in exchange for Ray Rippelmeryer, a right - handed pitcher, and Vic Rehm, a left-hander.

Bob Kennedy, 37, was given his outright release by the Los Angeles-bound Dodgers.

Kaliden Returns To Pitt Lineup For Army Game

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pitt quarterback Bill Kaliden will be back at the helm Saturday when the Panthers meet Army at West Point.

Kaliden, sidelined during last week's Nebraska game because of a bruised thigh, resumed practice Tuesday.

Two regulars were listed as doubtful starters because of flu attacks. Guard Dock Carr and junior halfback Bob Stark have been in bed for several days.

Coach John Michelosen said Danny Wisniewski, a senior, probably would take over Carr's post while Fred Riddle was slated to start for Stark.

Jim Theodore, a senior right halfback, who also has been ailing, was expected to resume practice today and be ready for the Army game.

Webb - Labua On TV Tonight

LOUISVILLE (UP) — Middleweight contender Spider Webb of Chicago is favored at 3-1 to beat Jackie Labua of New York tonight in their TV 10 - rounder at the Exposition Center.

Webb is fighting as a late-notice substitute for Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who was bedded last Saturday by a hip ailment. But the Spider is favored, nevertheless, because of his combined boxer - puncher ability.

Their bout will be televised nationally by ABC at 10 p.m. e.d.t.

W. Virginia, Indiana Are Given One-year Suspensions by NCAA

By BILL CLARK

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Indiana and West Virginia, the latest schools to run afoul of new "get-tough" National Collegiate Athletic Assn. policies, today made clear they consider their one-year probations a major slap.

Indiana Athletic Director Frank E. Allen reacted to the NCAA penalty by comparing his team to a stricken fighter, "floored twice," but "still with a chance to win." Allen said other schools have come back "to win" and "this Indiana will do."

The Hoosiers' first blow was the suspension of its new football coach, Phil Dickens, last July. The former Tennessee grid star transferred from Wyoming in January. Dickens' suspension followed the revelation of illegal offers of vacation transportation money and "incidental expense" allowances of $50 a month to about a dozen prospective athletes. The suspension, effected by the university, was the result of Big Ten pressure.

Findings Called "Unjust"

At Morgantown, W. Va. university President Irvin Stewart said he felt the probation, imposed following findings of the NCAA's infractions committee, was "unjust."

Stewart said the violation, involving a fabled Kentucky prep basketball player, did not comprise an infraction in his opinion since "a person not connected with the university did certain things without the knowledge of the university. He said further that West Virginia declined to accept the prospective athlete, identified as Kelly Coleman. The youth would now have been a second-year student.

Coleman who shattered virtually all Kentucky high school scoring records, was not accepted because of low scholastic marks.

The NCAA, in announcing the probations at the conclusion of a two-day executive council meeting here, said Indiana's violation was considered "far greater."

The body, however, charged that a West Virginia "friend and booster" offered and gave aid to the athlete "with the knowledge" of a university representative in contradiction to Stewart's comment.

Allegedly Got Gifts

The NCAA said the aid was in the form of the use of an automobile and gasoline credit card during the spring and summer of 1956 and periodic other gifts including cash.

The probation does not rule the schools out of any events, but serves as a warning.

NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers, in revealing the probations, said the action meant both schools' athletic programs will be under "close scrutiny." The NCAA will review the probations prior to the expiration date of Oct. 15, 1958. Byers said unless Indiana and West Virginia operate under complete accordance with NCAA regulations, the council would recommend expulsion."

Morrall Feels No Ill Effects From Injury

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Earl Morrall said today he felt no ill effects from a shoulder injury sustained Sunday in the Chicago Cardinal game.

The team completed its first practice session of the week Tuesday and fears that Morrall might not be available for Sunday's game with the New York Giants were dispelled.

Three other injured Steelers were listed as questionable starters. Halfback Dick Young, with a bad knee, fullback Bill Bowman, suffering a strained shoulder, and right end Bill McPeak, with a bruised side, were withheld from last Sunday's game and may not be available for the upcoming game.

Coach Buddy Parker was hoping to compensate for a 38-10 loss the Steelers suffered in New York last year.

The world champion Giants are favored to defeat Pittsburgh in the Sunday clash at Yankee Stadium. Both teams have 2-1 records for the season.

Braves Surprise, Vote Hazle Only Half-Share

By FRED DOWN

NEW YORK (UP)—Don McMahon had a full share of World Series gold today to compensate for the fact that he didn't get half his share of praise in the Milwaukee Braves' march to the National League pennant.

The Brooklyn - born fireballer had only a 2-3 record after joining the Braves on June 28 but was voted a full $8,924.36 share compared to the 3-4 share ($6,693.27) awarded Bob (Hurricane) Hazle, Milwaukee's late - season slugging sensation. Hazle joined the club July 28, hit 326 for almost a month and finished with a .403 mark for 41 games.

That was the only real surprise in the distribution of the Series melon, revealed Tuesday by Commissioner Ford Frick, but even Hazle wasn't inclined to make an issue of it.

McMahon's Record Deceptive

"I would like to have gotten a full share," said Hazle at his Columbia, S. C. home. "But it isn't for me to say what I should have. What the players voted is okay with me."

McMahon, a red-faced 215-pound right - hander, had one of the most deceptive records in baseball this year. Braves' manager Fred Haney repeatedly called him "my club reliever" and pointed to a 1.53 earned run average as the true measure of his ability. McMahon pitched 47 innings of relief without once throwing a home run ball—another indication of his ability.

The Braves voted 30 full shares, including one to regular center fielder Bill Bruton, who was on the disabled list after July 11. They gave Nippy Jones, purchased late in the season from the PCL, a 3-4 slice; awarded $60,000-bonus boy John Demerit, who played in 33 games, a 1-3 share of $2,974.78 and handed $118,000-bonus kid Bob Taylor, who appeared in only 7 games, a flat $1,000.

The American League champion New York Yankees exhibited their traditional generosity when they voted 33 full shares, including one to coach Bill Dickey, who was sick all year, and another to Pete Sheehy, who put in his 30th year as the team's clubhouse boy. They also voted a full share to Traveling Secretary Bill McCorry.

Third Highest Shares

The Braves' full - share value was exceeded only by the $11,147.90 which went to each New York Giant in 1954 and the $9,768.21 which went to each Brooklyn Dodger in 1955. The Yankees' full losing share of $5,606.06 was comparatively small.

Charley Segar, Baseball's secretary, revealed that Sal Maglie had been voted shares by both the Dodgers, with whom he started the campaign, and the Yankees, with whom he finished it. Frick ruled that Maglie should have the Yankee share — a ½ share of $2,803.08 compared to the Dodgers' full third-place share of $1,057.18.

The second - place St. Louis Cardinals voted 30 full shares with $1,636.22 each and the runnerup Chicago White Sox awarded 32 full shares worth $1,521.39 each.

NEW YORK (UP) — Milady's new suit and coat will cost about 7 per cent more next year. That's the forecast from garment manufacturers in the wake of pay increases awarded Tuesday to 50,000 New York City garment workers.

Russian Influence Is Rising in Middle East

(Editor's Note: Wilbur G. Landrey, United Press manager for the Middle East, is now in New York. Following is his assessment of the progress of the cold war in that strategic area.)

By WILBUR G. LANDREY

The Eisenhower Doctrine is failing to win and hold friends in the Arab Middle East. Russian influence is on the increase.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia and pro-Western Lebanon appear to be cooling toward the doctrine though Lebanon says she is standing by it. Both were among the doctrine's early supporters. Encouraging the tendency away from it is the fear of a world war starting on the border between Syria and Turkey.

Among other Arab nations, with the exception of Iraq, the pact has met either only lukewarm support or downright opposition. Jordan accepts U.S. money and arms, but refuses to align itself with the doctrine. Syria and Egypt have denounced it from the start.

The Eisenhower Doctrine was aimed at providing American money to help governments combat Communism at home, and American military aid—if requested—to combat any Communist aggression from abroad.

Its failure to win wide support has left the United States and the West weaker in the area than at any time in years—at a time when Russia is rattling her missiles and there are many fuses leading to the Middle East powder keg.

Now the tension between anti-American Syria, an Arab country, and pro-American Turkey, a non-Arab country, has fanned the ideal of "Arab unity" in Syria's favor.

In private, some Arab leaders expressed concern at Syria's turn to the left. But their concern turned into public support for Syria when the United States spoke out sharply about the latest Damascus-Moscow arms deal.

Arab support became stronger when Turkey, between Russia on the north and Syria in the south, allegedly began massing troops on Syria's border. Syria, and Russia, claim the United States is behind Turkish plans to provoke border incidents.

The Turks retort that their troops merely are holding maneuvers but warn sharply against any attempt to tamper with their borders.

Doctors 'Build' New Valves in Hearts of Dogs

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — Three Baylor University doctors reported success today in constructing heart valves in dogs from the wall of the aorta itself.

The doctors told the 43rd Clinical Congress of the American College of Surgeons that the technique has a definite application in human beings and may solve the problem of a condition known as aortic insufficiency. The condition is characterized by failure of a damaged valve (leaflets) to close properly, causing a backflow of blood into the aorta, key blood vessel in the body.

The doctors — Bernardo Castro-Villagrana, Alain Sisteron and Michael E. De Bakey told of successful construction of the valve in 16 or 18 dogs studied. They said they made an incision along the innermost wall of the aorta and then fashioned from a flap of the wall, a cusp similar to that in the heart of the dog.

The 10,000 delegates to the congress were told that of the 18 dogs studied, eight died several days after the operation because of infections or other conditions related to surgery. Six other dogs were destroyed after varying periods of examination of the valves. The remaining four are "still alive and in good condition" after a year.

Camus Likely Nobel Winner

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UP) — Literary critics today placed French author Albert Camus as the odds-on favorite to win the Nobel Prize for Literature.

The coveted award, worth more than $40,000, will be announced Thursday.

Camus was believed to be the front runner by far in a field which included Japanese, Italians, Greeks and other Frenchmen.

No United States writers were reported in the running.

Camus is the author of a novel, "L'Estranger;" a philosophical work, "Le Mythe de Sisyphe," and two plays, "Le Malentendu" and "Caligula."

Clark Demands Resignation of Secretary Dulles

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) launched a fiery attack Tuesday night against U. S. diplomacy and called for the resignation of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Speaking before the Philadelphia Chapter of the World Affairs Council, Clark declared that this nation has lost friends all over the globe. "The neutral nations distrust us and our allies have lost some of their respect for us," he charged.

He sharply criticized the administration for "allowing the budget bureau to put an artificial ceiling on the defense department's needs."

"Russia's Sputnik would serve a useful purpose," he said, "if it makes us realize that for the past five years our preoccupation with fiscal affairs has imperiled our national safety."

"Congress must share the blame for subordinating our military defense, foreign policy and world position to a politically inspired economy drive," he added. He said the principal fault lies with the national administration.

He urged lifting of fiscal controls on defense, more foreign aid elimination of waste and emphasis on research development.

Wholesale Prices Show Decline, Bureau Claims

WASHINGTON (UP) — Wholesale prices declined three-tenths of one per cent between mid-August and mid September, the Labor Department said today.

For the first time since May, wholesale prices of farm products decreased, dropping 2 per cent. Livestock and live poultry were 6 per cent cheaper at primary markets and the prices of fresh and dried vegetables at wholesale dropped more than 15 per cent.

A seven-tenths of one per cent drop in wholesale prices of metals and metal products contributed to the general decline. Iron and steel scrap prices fell as well as wholesale prices of lumber, rubber, leather, copper, silver, tin and mercury.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the wholesale price index for September was 118.0 per cent of average 1947-49 prices compared with 118.4 for August.

N. B. V. Fire Co. Hears Report Of Fire Chief

North Belle Vernon Fire Co. met on Monday evening, and the session was highlighted by a report on the local observance of Fire Prevention week from Oct. 7 to 13.

Fire Chief Robert Whitelaw announced that fire drills were conducted and an inspection of emergency fire fighting equipment was made in the local and some Rostraver Township Schools.

Whitelaw reported that he and Kenneth Beazell, chief of Belle Vernon Fire Co. No. 2, made an inspection of the sprinkler fire fighting system set up at Lincoln Homes factory. The proper method of using this equipment was outlined.

There was extensive instruction in fire fighting including the supply of water by the relay method from truck to truck.

President Vic Silvestro conducted the business session, and it was reported that another payment was made on the building. The men expect to have the building debt free by Jan. 1.

Final plans were made for Halloween party on Oct. 26.

Girl Scouts Have Routine Monday Meet

Girl Scouts of Intermediate Troop 62 met on Monday evening in the Girl Scout Little House with the leaders, Mrs. Melba Woods and Mrs. Althea Heath, in charge.

The flag ceremony, pledge of allegiance and singing of America opened the session.

Ocie Kimball was appointed newsie for the scrapbook.

Anna Moneta was welcomed as a new member.

The candy money and dues were collected by leaders of Patrol 1 and Patrol 2, Marlene Woods and Eilenne Riskey.

The girls are planning to see "The Ten Commandments" on Saturday, and each must present a permission slip when they meet at the bank building, Broad Ave. and Arch St. at 12:15 p. m.

A demonstration was given of the badge sash, and then the girls played games.

A Halloween party was planned for Oct. 28 at 4:30 at the Little House.

Robert Schmidt Resigns As B. V. Council Member

Robert Schmidt, who has served as a member of Belle Vernon Borough Council for several years, tendered his resignation at a meeting held on Monday evening. His term of office would have ended on Jan. 1, 1958.

Council accepted the resignation, and will meet later this week or early next week to fill the vacancy.

Rogert Gaggini, vice president, conducted the session in the absence of Alex Basits, president. Other councilmen attending include George Fedarko, John Cavannaugh and Schmidt.

In other action council voted a $15 per month salary for new members, who will assume duties the first of the year. They are not permitted to vote a salary for themselves as councilmen. Solicitor J. E. Costello was instructed to prepare the necessary ordinance.

Armand Tintori of East Belle Vernon was elected to fill the vacancy of street commissioner. Joseph Stephens having resigned.

Finance Chairman John Cavannaugh reported last month's meter collections at $85.14. The meters are now paid for by the borough.

Complaints concerning parking in the downtown area were turned over to Police Chief Vincent Isenberg for investigation.

It was also reported that a two way radio has been installed in Isenberg's car through the efforts Belle Vernon Fire Co. No. 2. He will have contact throughout the Monongahela Valley and Westmoreland County Civilian Defense department.

Steven Smith, tax collector, reported the collection of $223.74 in taxes during the month. Patsy Ginglardi, treasurer, reported a balance of $17,021.34. Burgess William Venerri reported the collection of $13 in fines, and Isenberg submitted his report.

Donice Waugaman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Waugaman of Delmont St. has been ill at her home for several days.

WRONG-WAY WEATHERWAX

DENVER (UP) — Conrad J. Weatherwax, 51, of Lisco, Neb., paid a $15 municipal court fine Tuesday for making a wrong turn up a one-way street. In the afternoon, Weatherwax was in court again. He paid $25 for a wrong turn on another one-way street. "It's just not my day," the motorist said. "All I want to do is get out of here and back to Lisco."

Break Ground For New Road

ERIE, Pa. (UP)—Gov. George M. Leader broke ground Tuesday for construction of the Erie County Thruway, a $47,000,000 link between Pennsylvania, Northern New York and Ohio.

The Thruway will be financed with 90 per cent federal funds and 10 per cent state allocations.

Leader urged that Western Pennsylvanians seek approval by the Federal Roads Bureau of a north - south, limited access highway from Erie to Pittsburgh and the West Virginia border. He said the proposed north - south road would be given "favorable consideration" by federal planners because completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway would bring about development of Erie as a major port.

The proposed north-south highway generally would run parallel to Route 19.

Belle Vernon CD of A Holds Meeting; Makes Future Plans

Belle Vernon Court Catholic Daughters of America met on Monday evening in the St. Sebastian schoolrooms. Grand Regent Mrs. Maude McCauley was in charge. There was a business session and Halloween observance.

The meeting began with recitation of the rosary, led by Mrs. Millie Angelo, for the deceased members of the court.

Mrs. Dorothy Flora, historian, reported that invitations were received from Court Dolores, Bentleyville, to attend a Day of Recollection on Oct. 20, from Court Annunciata, Connellsville and Court Canonsburg for receptions honoring new members. Reservations should be made with Mrs. McCauley.

Reports were given by the committee chairmen. Mrs. Cecilia Sadowski, ways and means chairman, stated that the first fund raising project was successful, and another sale of spaghetti sauce and meatballs will be held during the year.

Mrs. Dorothy Flora reported for the September committee. Mary Toth reported that there was no illness among the members.

A week end retreat was announced for all C.D. of A. members of the Greensburg Diocese. It will be held at St. Emma's retreat house, Greensburg Nov. 1 to 3.

Court Belle Vernon will have a Day of Recollection on Nov. 17. It will be from 2 to 5 followed by the serving of refreshments. Mrs. McCauley also announced that the courts will plan for a reception of new members in the spring. All members are to aid in securing new members.

Secret sisters will be revealed next month. Rachel Vizza won the dues award and Genevieve Conn won a special award.

Next Sunday was announced as Holy Communion Sunday for the court.

After adjournment the Rev. David L. Fisher gave a talk on "Philosophy of God."

The remainder of the evening was arranged by the social committee and those having birthdays in October were seated at the decorated birthday table. Margaret Fabian won the birthday prize. Molly Wilson and Maude McCauley won special prizes.

Luncheon was served by a committee composed of Edith Thot, Irene Meacci, Lillian Smerczmak, Julia Stewart, Bruna Tesi, Mary Toteda, Louise Trozzo, Emma Vannucci, Rachel Vizza, Lillian Valdiserri, Nell Valdiserri, Ann Toteda, Josephine Teano and Josephine Sousae.

Halloween Party Highlights Adult Class Meeting

A Halloween party highlighted the Monday evening meeting of the Young Adult Class of the Marion Presbyterian Church held in the church social rooms.

All the members were in costume and judges were Mrs. Fanny Provance and Mrs. Percy Henson.

Winning prizes were Bertie Bradford, prettiest; Pearl Stewart, funniest; Billie Davis, ugliest and June Albright, most original.

Billie Davis conducted the business session, which began with a devotional period with Ellen Hamer and Jean Harden in charge.

Routine reports were given and plans were outlined for the Nov. 12 pre-holiday bazaar to be sponsored by the group. It will be in the church social rooms from 7 until 9:30 p.m.

Committees named include fancy work, Arlene Winters, Pearl Stewart and June Albright; baked good, Elsie Adamec, Marilyn Legg; white elephant, Betty Peters and Sophie Cutter; pick-your-pocket, Gin Serenar, and Jean Harden. On the kitchen committee will be Bertie Bradford, Evalena Mavrikas, Shirley Stonfer, Marie Glotfelty, Gerry Mullen, Catherine Kobosky, Zella Britton and Ida Mae Holet.

Elsie Adamec was appointed to secure the site for the Christmas party.

Games were played, and luncheon was served by Marilyn Legg and Zella Britton. All decorations were in Halloween motif.

Book Review Tonight at Church Meet

The Rev. Abner P. Richard Jr of the First Presbyterian Church of Monessen will review the volume, "Missions U S A," this evening at the annual family night observance planned by the Ladies Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church.

The program will follow a 6:30 covered dish dinner in the church social rooms. Mrs. Constance Culler is dinner chairman.

Mrs. Clifford Dickson will be devotional leader and she will present slides on favorite hymns.

Members of the group will have their families as guests.

Man Charged With Abduction

ERIE, Pa. (UP)—Donald Horton, 36, Erie, apprehended because he had a red plastic horse hanging from his car mirror, has admitted abducting an unidentified Erie woman police said today.

The woman, mother of four children, identified Horton as the man who offered her a ride to work last Friday, drove her to a side street and knocked her unconscious with a wrench. Then, according to the woman, he taped her arms, hands and eyes and drove her to Indley Lake, Chautauqua County, N Y.

The woman said he criminally assaulted her and then brought her back to Erie and released her.

The only clue the woman gave police was a red plastic horse she saw hanging from the rear view mirror of her abductor's car.

Police said Horton, a father of four children, admitted taking the woman over the state line and knocking her unconscious, but denied the criminal assault accusation.

CONTEMPLATING LIBERTY?—Arkansas' Gov. Orval Faubus looks at the Liberty Bell replica in Little Rock, but has "nothing to say at present" over the news that half the 1,000 paratroopers are to be withdrawn and 8,500 members of the federalized National Guard are be deactivated. Meanwhile, quiet prevailed at Little Rock's Central High school and the nine integrated Negro students continue attending.

Bureau Reports Drop In Home Building

WASHINGTON (UP) — Work has begun on fewer homes and apartment houses in the first nine months of this year than in any comparable period since 1949, the Labor Department reported today.

The Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said 793,400 public and private dwelling units were started between Jan. 1 and Sept. 30 of this year.

Work began on 90,000 units in September, a drop of 5,000 from August and 4,000 from September, 1956. Almost all of the decline was in private housing and appeared to be countrywide, the Bureau said.

The 88,000 private dwellings started last month represented an annual rate of 990,000 after seasonal adjustments. Last year's total of private housing units begun was 1,093,900.

New housing fell off 20 per cent from the 1956 level in the northeast and north central regions in the first six months this year, the bureau said. Homebuilding in the South and West stayed closer to last year's levels.

The lag in construction has diminished. Earlier this year construction was off 16 per cent from 1956 but now the figure is down to about 10 per cent, the bureau reported.

BARBER CLIPPED

CHICAGO (UP)—Thieves broke into Ozie Akiens barber shop with the apparent intention of going into business for themselves. Not only did they take his barbering tools, they took his television set.

First Triple Play Maker Is Dead

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UP) — Neal Ball, 76, the first major league baseball player to make an unassisted triple play, died Tuesday after a long illness.

Ball achieved his feat in 1909, while playing shortstop for Cleveland against the Boston Red Sox. With men on first and second bases, he caught a line drive, touched second and tagged the man racing back to first.

Sales Increase

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp. today reported net earnings of $1,938,861, or 51 cents per share of common stock, for the third quarter of 1957.

Fire Company Auxiliary in Regular Meeting on Monday

Mrs. Rose Beazell, chaplain, conducted the devotions to open the Monday evening meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to Belle Vernon Fire Co. No. 2 held in the fire hall. The group joined in the pledge, Lord's Prayer and the singing of America.

President Dorothy Wendel was in charge, and there were 31 members present. Mrs. Bell Gallow of Dravosburg was a guest.

The special prize was won by Gerry Curcio, the auxiliary prize by Bertha Forsberg and the committee prize by Mrs. Gallow.

Mrs. Mabel Yeaton, chairman of the by-laws committee, read the new by-laws for the final time and each article was accepted.

Danny Davenport representing the Fire Co. asked the women to serve the Fayette County Firemen's Association a dinner at the First Christian Church on Nov. 6.

Jeanne Cohen was named chairman of the Christmas committee, and the banquet will be held at the First Christian Church.

Ann Maksa reported for the September committee.

After Mrs. Beazell conducted closing ceremonies there was a social hour. Games were played, and prizes won by Rhonda Cramer, Adda Jackson, Jeanne Cohen, Alice Smith, Theresa Manzini, Babe Kuhn, Bertha Forsberg, Lulu Gillen, Leonore Beazell, Mary Kessler, Isabelle Kyle, Doris Wall, Ann Maksa, Betty Wagner and Doreen Wright. The October committee, Gerry Curcio, Dolores Usher, Evelyn Komlos, Mary Kessler, Althea Heath and Doreen Wright served luncheon.

Satellite Pull Won't Affect Speed or Life

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — A scientist said today the mysterious pull on Russia's earth satellite rocket won't affect its speed and probably won't shorten its life.

But Dr. J. Allen Hynek, associate director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here, would not speculate on the nature of the mysterious force which apparently is shifting the course of the rocket. But he did say he doubted it would slow it down or affect the rocket's life.

He said the force seemed to be "tugging sideways on the satellite's orbit."

Scientists classify both Sputnik itself and the rocket which kicked it into space as satellites.

Hynek said identifying the force would be "of great academic interest" since it appeared to be making the rocket act in defiance of gravity.

Utility Stressed for New Library Here

(Last in a Series)

Monessen's new public library building is being designed for economical construction, efficiency of operation and simple, lasting beauty.

Construction of the building, on a Donner Ave. site, just half a block from the city's principal shopping district, is contingent upon approval of a $200,000 city bond issue by the voters on Nov. 5.

Plans for the building are now on the drawing boards of J. Russell Bailey, architect, at his offices in Orange, Va. Bailey is a specialist in planning library buildings and was employed over a year ago by the directors of the Monessen Civic Library Association.

Associated with Bailey in the project is Architect H. Earnest Clark of Monessen.

So far only preliminary sketches have been prepared and no final decisions have been made. They won't be until after the voters have given their verdict on the project.

But enough architectural work has been done to permit fairly close estimates of the building's cost and to allow a glimpse of what the structure will be like.

It is safe to say even now that it is going to be one of the finest public buildings of any kind in this area, a striking addition to Monessen's steadily brightening downtown district.

Bailey has been consulting with Joseph N. Wheeler, the expert in public library development whose study of Monessen's library needs has been the "bible" of the Library Association's directors in their planning work.

Library to Be Used

Wheeler's 1955 report sketched the main outlines of the new building. It said in part:

"If the taxpayers and library users of Monessen wish to get the best and most library service for the least money they will avoid several errors and misconceptions frequently encountered.

"They will not imagine that their central library is primarily something to look at. It is to be used. They will not set it back as many architects and landscapers would wish, with lawn and trees in front of it. We can cite cases where by so doing the use of a library has been greatly reduced compared with its possibilities."

Forget any thoughts of putting the library "back on the hill", Wheeler advised the board. Put it in the busiest downtown location you can afford to buy.

Ralph Munn, director of the great Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, who has been consulted in the planning of Monessen's new library, has said that the main Carnegie building is a "classic example" of poor library location. The building is in Oakland; Munn says it should be in the Golden Triangle of downtown Pittsburgh.

Monessen will avoid that error.

As to the design of the building, Wheeler had some more positive ideas.

Not Monument

"The modern public library building," he said," is not a classical or monumental and pretentious building...All these former concepts of a library, which gave it the appearance of a 'Morgue of Culture' have passed partly because of the excessive cost, partly because they seemed to have 'no sense' about them, and partly because architects and librarians have found that a simply designed, beautiful and gracious library building best reveals itself and its purposes to everyone who passes, if it stands at the sidewalk line, has a sidewalk-level entrance to its main floor, and lets everyone look directly into its busy interior so that it may attract more readers and information seekers."

Architect Bailey, who has made several visits to Monessen to consult with the Library Association's building committee, is following Wheeler's suggestions closely. His latest sketches show a dramatically open front with wide areas of glass and a simple frame-like trim which would probably be executed in marble or other kind of quarried stone, he says.

Inside, the huge main reading room would be subtly divided by shelving into areas for casual reading of newspapers and periodicals, a section for adult reference and study and a children's department. The walls would be utilized entirely for shelving.

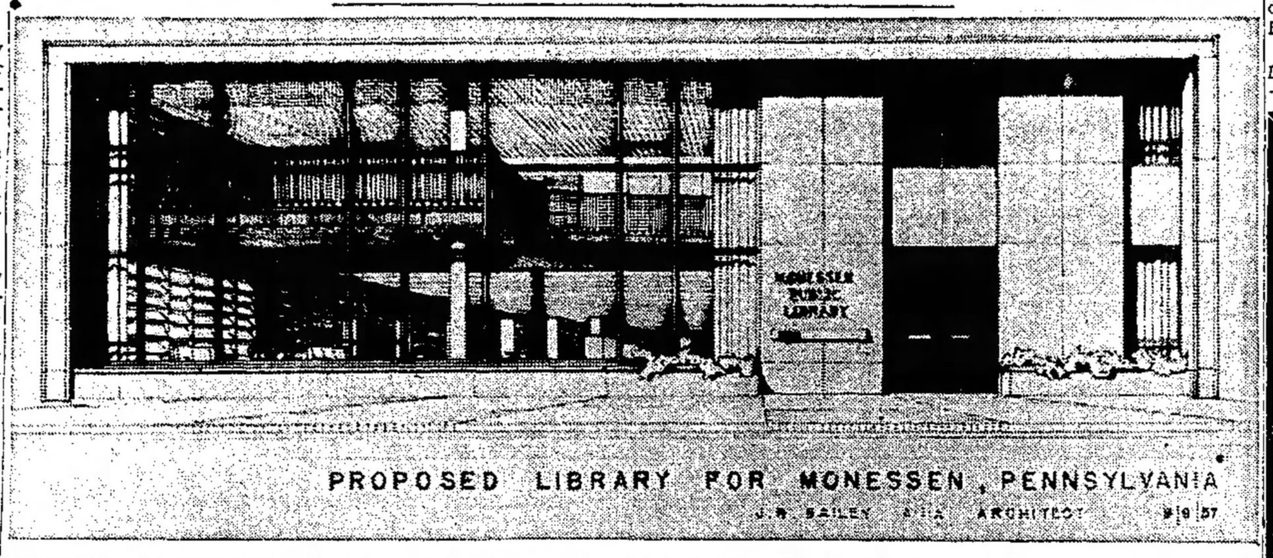
The main floor would have an area of about 6,500 square feet. An additional mezzanine is being planned which would allow for future expansion and would include a small meeting room with seats for about 50 persons. This would be available for children's story hours and adult meetings of a literary nature.

All of the open areas would be within sight range of the main charging desk, keeping staff requirements to a minimum.

The building will be completely air-conditioned.

Some form of war memorial will be incorporated in the final plans since a fund of about $6,000, accumulated for the purpose during World War II, was turned over to the Library Association last year.

City Council has agreed to build the new building along the lines planned by the association. Bailey advises that working drawings could be completed and ready for contractor's bids by early spring if the voters say "Yes" on Nov. 5.



PROPOSED NEW LIBRARY — Here is a preliminary architect's sketch of the exterior of Monessen's new library building. Final plans can be prepared quickly if local voters approve a $200,000 city bond issue at the Nov. 5 election.

No Washday Blues For These Workers

BLAIRSVILLE, Pa. (UP) — Those washday blues come seven days a week at the Westinghouse Electric Corp. metal plant here.

The company has three of its Laundromats working round the clock washing coveralls, overshoes, T-shirts and other underclothing of employes in the plant's processing area.

The reason for this daily scrubbing is that these employes come into contact with slightly radioactive uranium oxide which easily accumulates on their clothing.

State in Bid to Hold '58 Plowing Matches

By UNITED PRESS

Pennsylvania is going to make a formal bid to host the 1958 National Plowing matches.

The 1957 matches..in which each of Pennsylvania's three entries placed among the first ten...drew approximately 350,000 persons during its three-day run at Peebles, Ohio.

In mid-September, Gov. George M. Leader sent Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Leland H. Bull to Ohio in an effort to interest the sponsors of the annual event in considering the Keystone state for the 195 contest.

James Bobb, vice president of the Hershey Estates, who accompanied Bull to Ohio, offered the 10,000-acre Hershey Farms for the 1958 matches. Bobb said the management of the farms is prepared to rearrange crop rotation schedules if Hershey is selected.

Bull said the greater Harrisburg area is accustomed to handling the state farm show and other large crowds. Bull also said that plowing matches are at their peak of interest right now. He added it would be a "big boost to the Commonwealth and to our agriculture if the national contest moves in to Pennsylvania."

Drought Inconsistent

The effects of the 1957 drought in Pennsylvania were not consistent. Some counties were hard hit while neighboring counties in some instances, were relatively unaffected. In some counties, there is a shortage of hay while in others there is a surplus.

Recently a survey was made of surplus hay-producing counties and according to Wayne Kelly, Penn State Extension farm management specialists, there is a quantity of hay available in Bradford, Butler, Cambria, Clearfield, Crawford, Huntingdon, Franklin, Indiana, Jefferson, McKean, Potter, Somerset Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, and Warren counties.

Counties where a shortage has been reported were Columbia, Elk, Greene, and Wayne.

Christmas Trees Selling

Starting this year, price reporting for Christmas trees will be handled by the Crop Reporting Services of Harrisburg.

At present the picture is bright. Some growers have reported sales for this marketing season contracted as early as May. Hundreds of reports are in from growers indicating that sales are well underway. Prices are reported favorable.

In Southeastern Pennsylvania, growers reported that they are unable to fill the needs of prospective buyers.

Practically all the members of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association have reported their trees sold.

Mrs. Rosella Giocondi, Star Junction, is a patient in the Connellsville Hospital.

$60,000 Awarded To Somerset Man

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Walter Dunn, 45, Windber, Somerset County, has been awarded $60,000 by a Federal Court jury for injuries suffered when he returned to work too soon after surgery.

Dunn was injured March 21, 1952, while working as a trackman at Johnstown, Pa., for the Conemaugh and Black Lick Railroad. He contended the railroad's action in putting him back to heavy labor following surgery for a stomach ulcer led to permanent injuries.

The verdict was returned Monday before Judge Wallace S. Gourley.

Lions Club Hears School Discussion

The Perryopolis Lions Club held a recent meeting at the First Christian Church.

J. Richard Palonder, president, was in charge. Reports were given by Ralph Linderman, secretary and Dwight Forsythe, treasurer.

Harry B. Riffle, assistant Fayette County superintendent of schools, spoke on "Educational Developments in Fayette County." Glenn Irvin also discussed a new Perryopolis school project.

Women of Moose Hold Meeting

The Women of the Moose, Chapter 1055, met recently in the Perryopolis firehall.

The Mooseheart chapter night was presented and a Christmas-in-October party enjoyed. Guest speaker was Sara Enberg, Scottdale. Reports on the doll and wardrobe project were made by Ada Defino.

Corning Glass Skyscraper Is Being Built

Construction has begun on the newest addition to New York City's skyline — a 28-story tower of glass sponsored by Corning Glass Works.

The building's glass "skin", including flush-set windows, will use about four-and-a-half acres of green-tinted, heat-absorbing glass, set off by thin strips of aluminum spaced about five feet apart.

The building is the first on upper Fifth Ave. to give up part of its avenue frontage for an open plaza. A 12-foot setback from the sidewalk will allow the building's tower to soar straight up for 28 stories.

Architects are considering the use of Corning's newly discovered glass-ceramic materials in the lobby floor. It would be the first architectural use for Pyroceram products, made of the new wonder materials that are more durable than marble.

Also under study is the possible use of a luminous glass ceiling for the lobby and Fiberglas drapes and solid glass doorknobs throughout the building.

More than 65 per cent of the paint sold to householders is for self-application, compared with only 15 per cent sold for that purpose 20 years ago.

GOP United on Domestic; Split On Foreign Policy, Nixon Says

(The editor of The Daily Independent is reporting the substance of a lengthy background conference between Vice President Nixon and members of the National Conference of Editorial Writers at Oklahoma City, Okla., last Saturday. Following is the last in the series of reports.)

By HARRY R. PORE Jr.

Vice President Richard Nixon thinks the Republican party is largely united on domestic economic issues, but he admits that there are sharp divisions on foreign policy.

Mr. Nixon believes, however, that isolationism of the kind most often encountered in the Midwest states, is gradually disappearing from the GOP.

In support of this view, he pointed to studies which show that the percentage of Republicans in Congress supporting the Eisenhower administration on foriegn policy issues has been steadily increasing at each session.

The Vice President said he was well aware of the criticism from some Republicans that the so-called "modern Republicanism" of President Eisenhower is nothing but made-over New Dealism or even plain socialism.

But he insisted that the President stands for balanced budgets, private enterprise, economy in administration and cooperation between government and private citizens in the development of national resources. And Mr. Nixon thinks this is orthodox Republicanism.

Show Two Faces

Republican differences, the Vice President insisted, do not involve fundamental principles.

But he told us that the Democrats cannot make this claim. He said the differences among Democrats, as for instance on the question of civil rights, are deep and fundamental and therefore difficult to reconcile.

Actually, Mr. Nixon said, the Democrats show two faces to the nation.

But the Vice President is nevertheless a firm believer in the two-party system. He feels there ought to be room in both major parties for variations of opinion and that these variations can usually be reconciled for the purposes of united election campaigns.

A question from one of the editorial writers turned Mr. Nixon to the issue of labor laws. He was asked whether he thought the McClellan investigation and particularly the disclosures about the Teamsters Union would bring on new legislation to control union operations.

The Vice President said bluntly that he thought it would. He said he thought the election of James Hoffa as president of the Teamsters has greatly increased the sentiment in Congress for restrictive laws.

And what form might these take?

Mr. Nixon said he could not be sure. But he indicated that he himself would favor laws against organization picketing and secondary boycotts. He said also that there will be strong support in Congress now for laws to insure more democracy in labor unions and protection of the funds in union treasuries from misuse by union leaders.

His basic philosophy on labor-management questions, Mr. Nixon said, is that there must be maintained a good balance between the power of labor on one hand and the power of management on the other.

He said the Taft-Hartley Act, which he helped to draft, was necessary to redress an imbalance of power that had developed out of the old Wagner Act. And he said the McClellan committee, which he feels is doing a first rate job, is demonstrating that further correction is needed.

Paris Lights Go Out as Utility Workers Strike

PARIS (UP) — A nationwide strike of electrical and gas workers paralyzed France today.

Three major unions called their workers off the job at power stations and gas works throughout the country early this morning to back demands for higher wages.

The lights went out in Paris—the fabled "city of light" — and other cities around the country.

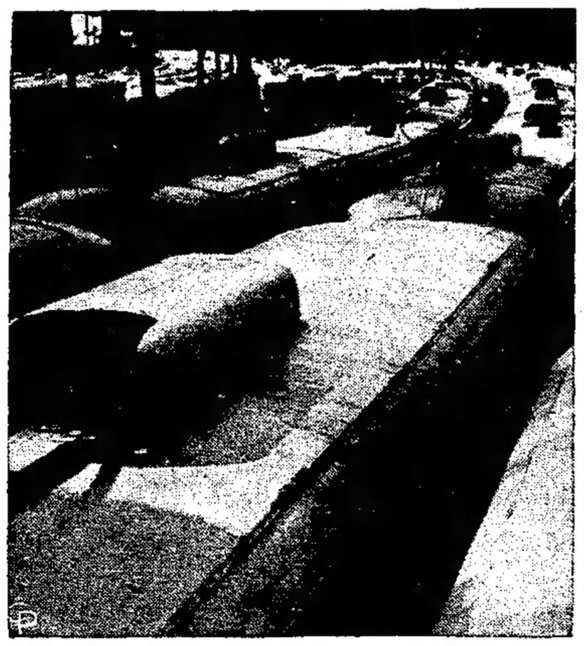
All electric trains, comprising about one-third of France's rail transportation, were halted. Other rail traffic was slowed because electrically-operated signals were not working.

The blackout also put street lights out of commission and snarled motor vehicle traffic.

ospitals were serviced by emergency sources of current.

A spokesman for the state-owned "Electricite de France" said he expected partial service would be restored this afternoon. The strike was scheduled to end this afternoon.

Summer temperatures in some places in the United States are higher than usual temperatures in the tropics.



OFF-THE-STREETCARS — A transit strike idled these streetcars in one of the car barns in Pittsburgh's Golden Triangle district. Hundreds of thousands of people were forced to find other ways of getting to work after some 2,200 employes of the Pittsburgh Railways staged a walkout.

Socialists Challenge Khrushchev

By MURRAY BROWN

West Europe's Socialists today challenged Nikita S. Khrushchev to raise before the United Nations his charges that the United States and Turkey are creating a "real danger" of a new world war by "threatening" Syria.

The Socialists, in effect, told the Soviet Communist Party boss that his appeal for their help in alleviating tensions in the Middle East had been misdirected.

Khrushchev, in similarly - worded letters to the Socialist parties in seven Western European countries, Tuesday accused the United States and Turkey of preparing a "military adventure" against Syria. He warned that such "military provocations" could touch off World War III.

Procedure Resented

There was considerable resentment in some Western quarters over Khrushchev's use of diplomatic channels to deliver his message to Socialist parties not in power. The British press was particularly loud in its criticism of Khrushchev's violation of diplomatic courtesy.

The letter was sent to Socialist parties in Britain, Norway, Denmark France, Italy, Belgium and the Netherlands by the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee over Khrushchev's signature.

The British, Norwegian and Danish Socialists pointed out in their replies that the keeping of the peace in the Middle East as elsewhere in the world was the function of the United Nations.

They urged Khrushchev to bring the Soviet charges of planned aggression against Syria before the United Nations if he was so concerned over the threat of war.

From Moscow, United Press correspondent Whitman Bassow reported that diplomatic observers saw the Khrushchev letter as another propaganda maneuver aimed at enhancing the Soviet Union in the eyes of the Arabs. The diplomats said they saw little new in the latest blast.

Lebanese Foreign Minister Charles Malik Tuesday reaffirmed at U. N. headquarters Lebanon's pledge to side with the Arab world in a conflict with the West but to stand "unreservedly on the side of the free world" in the struggle against Communist "totalitarianism and dialectical materialism."

Brownie Troop Meeting Held At Fells Church

Brownie Troop 53 Fellsburg met yesterday at Fells Church with Marlene Cuthbert in charge of the opening service.

Flag bearers were Diane Long and Frances Smith. Color guards were Sandy Schmid and Mary Ann Grant. The Troop saluted the flag and sang the national anthem followed by the Brownie promise and prayer.

Nut orders were turned in and plans made for a halloween party to be held at the church Oct. 31. Friday is the deadline for orders for nuts.

Peggy Murphy was in charge of the closing ceremony during which it was announced that a family skating party will be held Oct. 26 at Piggy-Wiggy rink.

Leaders present were Mrs. Robert Ammon and Mrs. Schmid.

District Visitor Is On Illness List

Mrs. Martha Fay of Baltimore, Md., who has been visiting this summer with friends and relatives in this area, is recovering from an illness which she suffered six weeks ago. She is visiting at present with her son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. Howard Rodebaugh and family in Fellsburg. Earlier in the summer she spent several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Herman Brightwell, and family in Brownstown.

Week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Echart were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wood, Akron, Ohio, and Mr. Edmund Rogers, R. D., Belle Vernon.

Kevin Echart, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Echart, Johnson Ave., took part in a fashion show in a Charleroi store, modeling coats and suits.

Mrs. Ted Makovsky, Johnson Ave., have been informed via telephone by their son, George Pollock, that he has arrived in the United States after spending several months with the Navy at sea. He also was on duty in England and now stationed in Virginia.

A TOUGH PAY OFF

CHICAGO (UP)—New York Yankee fan Richard Kenar shouldered a heavy responsibility when he bet against the Milwaukee Braves. Kenar pushed a wheelbarrow more than three miles to a tavern to buy a drink for winner Ted Pikul—who rode inside.

Paul Switzer Is Guest Speaker at Sunday Service

The Sunday evening service at Webster was held in the Methodist Church with John Jugan as song leader and Madge Hamilton, pianist.

The Rev. John Shell offered the opening prayer and group singing of "Rock of Ages" followed. Jugan then read an article "Not Giving, Not Sharing". An singspiration followed.

After offering prayer, the guest speaker, Mr. Paul Switzer, new pastor of Pricedale Union Church, spoke from scripture.

Next Sunday's speaker will be the Rev. Anna Potter, Concord Church pastor.

Leader Pleads For Programs to Benefit Youth

McKEESPORT, Pa. (UP)—Gov. George M. Leader has warned Pennsylvanians that the next state administration "cannot afford to shortchange the young people of Pennsylvania."

Speaking at the annual Boystown banquet sponsord by the local Elks lodge Tuesday night, the governor said the state has made advances in the education of youth during his administration. He emphasized achievements in establishing special schools for retarded children and the success of the public school building program.

Pointing out that his administration expires in another year, the governor said:

"Regardless of the political complexion of the Commonwealth's next General Assembly and regardless of who is elected governor, we cannot afford to shortchange the young people of Pennsylvania. Having done so in the past, we must beware of doing so again.

"And so I tell you that if you want better schools, you must be prepared to vote for them. If you want a decent break for our mentally ill, you must fight to make your government respond to your wish. If you want officeholders who will reflect your will, you must fight to elect them."

Business Picture Is Mixed, Experts Claim

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL

NEW YORK (UP) — Scattered layoffs, lagging production and Sputnik gave businessmen plenty to think about last week.

The business picture remains mixed, with some factors pointing to a rise and others to a decline. It is hoped they will offset each other and keep the economy humming along at a high plateau.

The Northern Trust Co. of Chicago, said there are no clear signs of either an upturn or a downturn. However, the First National Bank of Boston said there are signs of a further "throttling down of our overdriven economy."

It said "clues to the direction and timing of the next move remain obscure, and sentiment has become both more uncertain and more cautious."

Production Declines

Although total spending in the economy continues at record levels, production in key lines such as steel, lumber and paper are running below the corresponding levels of both 1956 and 1955. So are railroad carloadings, a key barometer of economic activity.

Prentice-Hall said reduced spending for inventories and plant expansion are "depressing output of many raw materials to three-year lows."

This business advisory service said pressures on the federal government to ease the money market will intensify in the months ahead, along with demands for easier credit to spur housing and tax cuts to sustain consumer spending.

"Business in 1958 may well depend on the success of these efforts," Prentice-Hall reported.

International Statistical Bureau said the economy is entering into "one of the most difficult periods since before the war," although no marked decline is in prospect for 1958.

The Pennsylvania Railroad announced this week it will furlough 4,000 workers throughout its vast system because of the failure of the fourth quarter rise in business to materialize. New York Central laid off 400.

New orders in many lines of business, while rising, have been disappointing. This is true of steel.

Spokesmen for Lukens Steel predicted this week that the steel industry will boost its capacity by 10 per cent in the next two years to 146 million tons. In addition, they said the key to steel operations next year hinges on whether there is inventory liquidation or accumulation. They said a build-up of steel stocks could push output to a new peak in 1958.

Sputnik Plays Role

Sputnik, the Russian earth satellite, played a role in the business picture this week.

Some experts believe the U.S. will speed up its ballistic missile development program in the wake of Russia's scientific breakthrough. This could be a boon to the aircraft and electrics industries, both of which are involved in this program.

A more concrete effect of Sputnik appeared on the retail scene. Department stores in many cities reported a rush to buy telescopes and binoculars, as people took up "moon gazing" with a vengeance. Also, toy manufacturers were reported preparing a whole host of new outer-space toys and games for Christmas.

SATELLITE TALK?—President Eisenhower emphasizes a point during an hour-long conference with Defense Secretary Neil McElroy, presumably concerning the satellite program. This White House conference was held prior to the meeting with his 14-member scientific advisory committee. (International Soundphoto)

Democrats Cut Deeply Into GOP in State

By JOE KIRKBRIDE

HARRISBURG (UP)—Pennsylvania Democrats have cut deeply into the traditional Republican registration lead in the state this year, with gains scored mostly in new voter enrollments.

A United Press survey disclosed today the Democrats whittled the GOP margin to about 337,044. Three years ago the Republicans held nearly a one million registration advantage, but lost the gubernatorial election.

The drive by both parties for new voters gained at least 155,073 additional registrants for the Nov. 5 elections.

However, the Democrats fell far short of their 150,000 new voter goal with new registrations of 98,393. The Republicans added 54,857 voters for a total of 2,835,847. The Democrats cut into the GOP margin by 43,536 for a total enrollment of 2,498,803.

Total registrations in the 67 counties, including non-partisan, independents and others appeared to be over the 5,406,000 mark.

The upsurge of registered Democrats was centered mainly in party strongholds in Allegheny and Westmoreland counties in the west and Philadelphia and Lackawanna counties in the east. Allegheny registered a net gain of 9,942 over the GOP while Philadelphia registered a 25,626 upswing. The four counties alone accounted for 39,524 of the Democrats' statewide net voter gain.

The two parties traded registration leads in two counties. The Democrats apparently took over the Philadelphia registration lead for the first time by about 25,000 voters while Clarion moved into the GOP column by 641 voters.

The registration results were not surprising to observers who pointed out the trend always swings toward the party represented in the Executive Mansion.

The registration totals were obtained from the state Elections Bureau's official records for all counties except Cumberland, Erie, Lackawanna, Luzerne and Philadelphia. Unofficial tabulations were used for counties which had not reported to the bureau, but their overall totals were not expected to be more than 3,000 to 5,000 registrations off.

Lists By Counties

The registrations of area counties, with "GT" representing the grand total of both major political parties and miscellaneous eligible voters:

Allegheny: D 485,224; R 318,112; GT 808,161.

Fayette: D 58,640; R 25,649; GT 84,621.

Greene: D 15,660; R 4,923; GT 20,608.

Philadelphia: D 535,610; R 516,403; GT 1,074,342.

Somerset: D 18,338; R 21,157; GT 39,670.

Washington: D 68,308; R 33,831; GT 102,533.

Westmoreland: D 105,659; R 54,941; GT 161,336.

Tornadoes Rip Louisiana; 26 Reported Hurt

By UNITED PRESS

Tornadoes ripped sections of Louisiana today, injuring at least 26 persons and causing heavy property damage in the Opelousas, La., area.

The twisters followed in the wake of torrential rains along the Louisiana - Texas coast. Houston, Tex., recorded more than 10 inches of rain during the past 48 hours, and more than 5 inches in the past 24.

Six persons from rural areas near Opelousas were admitted to a clinic for treatment of injuries suffered in the twister. Twenty other persons were hurt when a tornado hit near Leonville, north of Opelousas. They were treated for minor injuries and released.

About 10 homes were destroyed by the twister near Leonville.

Twisters also were reported Tuesday night at Port Barre, La., and in the Baton Rouge, La., area.

Rainfall was general throughout the Gulf Coast Tuesday night and early today, with a number of communities reporting up to 2 inches of precipitation.

West of the Rockies and east of the Appalachians fair and pleasant weather was forecast, except for cloudiness in the Pacific Northwest.

TECHNICAL PLANT OPENED

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—The Minneapolis - Honeywell Regulator Co., whose devices will guide Sputnik's American counterpart into outer space, formally opened a 4½ million dollar plant here Tuesday. The facility, which employs 450 persons and is engaged in orders totaling 3 million dollars, is believed to be the first in this country specifically designed to produce inertial guidance systems for unmanned missiles and aircraft.

Melons Flown To Save Life of Stricken Girl

CHICAGO (UP)—Eight watermelons will be flown to a 6-year-old girl who requires a diet of watermelon in order to stay alive.

Milton Pearlman, 47, a produce merchant, said the watermelons will be flown to Cameron, W. Va., by Eastern Air Lines. Pearlman also said he will make available as many more watermelons as are necessary for Audrey Jean Rox, 6.

Audrey suffers from a kidney disease which is held in check by the special diet. The little girl's mother had expressed anxiety over the possibility Audrey would not be able to get watermelon during the winter.

An Eastern Air Lines official said the company would make arrangements for overland transportation of the watermelon once they are delivered to the nearest airline terminal to Cameron.

Champagne, when well made and placed in cool cellars, retains its quality from 10 to 20 years.

WITNESS CONFESSES MURDER

ATLANTA (UP)—A murder trial broke down abruptly here Tuesday when one of the prosecution's witnesses confessed to the crime. The jury had been out about 45 minutes when Birdie Mae Morris, Negro women, confessed killing James Prior. Judge Virlyn D. Moore ordered the defendant, Freddie Mae Bennett, acquitted.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

1 Death Notice

BAKER — Alexander Herbert (Bert), aged 78 years, formerly of Irwin, died Oct. 14, 1957 at 10:00 p. m. in Buffalo, N. Y. He had been a resident of Buffalo for about two years. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Anna Hills of Buffalo, three grandchildren; a sister, Miss Mary C. Baker of Monessen. Friends are being received at the Snyder Funeral Home, 521 Main St., Irwin. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock with Rev. L. C. McCune in charge. Interment will be in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery. Pittsburgh Snyder Funeral Home in charge.

2 Card of Thanks

HOFFMAN — We wish to thank the many thoughtful friends and neighbors who extended us kindness in our recent bereavement, the death of Mrs. Eva Hoffman. The ministrations of the Very Rev. Henry Hanse, the Rev. David Fisher, the Rev. Robert Feeney, the services of Dr. Victor Bair, Dr. Joseph Newhouse, Dr. W. McCall, the nurses and nurses aides in the female wing, second floor, Charleroi-Monessen Hospital, Denver Rhome and wife, Betty, the Altar Society of St. Eusibius Church, Fayette City, the Monessen Lions Club, masses, floral tributes expressions of sympathy, spiritual comfort, cars loaned for the funeral, and the aid of the pall bearers; as well as all those who assisted at the funeral will be remembered with gratitude.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Gramatikos and Children

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Raffaela Damore, who died 10 years ago today, October 16, 1947.

You are not forgotten, mother,
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place
Sadly missed by Sons, Daughter-in-law and Grandcaughter.

In loving memory of our dear friend, Mayme Roberts Murphy, who died one year ago today, October 16, 1956.

Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death leaves a heartache no one can heal;
Loved dearly in life and living yet
In the hearts of the ones who will never forget.

Sadly missed by friends, Ann B. Ritzer and Mary Leah.

Hear Testimony On Request for Milk Increase

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission heard additional testimony today on the request of dealers and producers for an increase in milk prices in the Pittsburgh marketing district.

Spearheading the drive for higher prices at the opening session of the commission's hearings Tuesday was the Greater Pittsburgh Dairy Industry Assn. The association asked a third of a cent boost in the retail price of a quart of milk to cover recent wage increases and another "substantial increase" to "permit dealers to operate at a minimum reasonable profit level."

Dairy farmers were expected to seek still further increases. The present retail price of milk in the area is 25 cents a quart and 48 cents a half-gallon when purchased at a store. Delivered prices are 26 cents a quart and 51 cents a half-gallon.

William D. Sutton, counsel for the Association representing 60 milk companies, told the commissioners inflation virtually has converted milk dealers into "non-profit enterprises."

He said a reasonably efficient dealer must sell 800 quarts of milk to make a dollar profit, after taxes.

Announce Plans For Fayette City Minister Group

The Fayette City Ministerial Association met at the home of the Rev. Harry Beveridge, Connellsville St., on Tuesday evening with all members of the association present. Plans were made for all special programs for the remainder of the year and for the week of prayer to be held in January.

Thanksgiving services in the Fayette City Methodist Church will be conducted on Thursday, Nov. 28 at 9 a.m. with the Rev. D. Earl Daniel, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, speaking. Special Thanksgiving music will be provided by the Methodist Choir.

A discussion on the Release-Time Religious Education program being conducted in the schools was a topic of the meeting. Rev. Beveridge announced that those in charge of the classes are well pleased with the response by students.

The Community week of Prayer will be held in each of the four participating churches beginning January 7 and continuing through Jan. 10, meeting each evening in a different church. The schedule for these meetings will be announced in January through church bulletins.

The ministers set the next meeting of their association for Jan. 20 when they will again lay plans for the community church activities for another quarter of a year.

In Harrisburg to Represent Legion

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yusko spent the past week end in Harrisburg.

While there, Mrs. Williams, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Brightwell-Daugherty Post, Fayette City, and Mrs. Yusko, secretary, attended the president-secretary conference held in the Educational Forum.

Saturday morning they heard the state commander of the Legion, John Collins of Uniontown, speak. Reports of all state chairmen and Departments featured the conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Makepeace and three children of Atlanta, Ga. visited Saturday with their aunt, Mrs. Alfred Makepeace, of Middle Street. Mr. Makepeace is the son of two former residents, Elizabeth Weiner Makepeace and the late Leanard Makepeace.

Woman's Club Has Card Party To Raise Funds

Fourteen tables of cards were in play at the first fund raising activity of the Fayette City Woman's Club this season when the way's and mean's group one held a card party at the Community Center on Monday evening. Prizes for high scoring were awarded to Mrs. Allan Smith, euchre; Mrs. Howard Opfar, auction; Mrs. Edwin Hindmarsh, contract and 500 prizes went to Mrs. Thurman Bailey, first; Mrs. Charles Beazell, second and Mrs. Emily Grandlund, third. The door prize went to Mrs. Marie Markish.

Members of the committee were Mrs. Willard Author, Mrs. Louis Alberta, Mrs. Richard Auther, Mrs Beazell, Miss Permelia Baldwin, Mrs. Read Brightwell, Mrs. Joseph Ciavarra, Mrs. Thomas Conway, Mrs. D. Earl Daniel, Mrs. Aland C. Dent, Mrs. James Eley, Miss Gladys Davis, Betty Evans, Mrs. Stephen Figel, Mrs. Elsie Gaffney, Mrs. George Breckenridge and Mrs. Joseph Butler.

Lions To Hear Talk On Social Security

Interesting facts on Social Security will be discussed at the meeting of the Fayette City Lion's Club tomorrow at 6:30 in the dining room of the Methodist Church. Deny Ike to Avoid Trip to Georgia

WASHINGTON (UP)—The White House has labeled as a "lot of junk" a published report President Eisenhower could make U.S. Secret Service men "happy" by not going to Augusta, Ga., this fall.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President would go—as far as he knew — to the Augusta National Golf Club in November. Eisenhower has gone there for several years.

FLU KILLS 150

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—The Asian flu epidemic sweeping Europe has caused at least 150 deaths and hospitalized thousands of Germans in West Germany, health officials reported today. The U.S. Air Force in Europe reported 8,096 cases of the illness, and the U.S. Army said 9,500 soldiers have been hospitalized with the flu.

Special Diabetic Problems

B. H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

We all know that diabetes is a big problem. Somewhere between 1,000,000 and 3,000,000 Americans have the disease. For every four known cases, there may be three or more diabetes victims who are unaware they have the disease.

Aside from the need for insulin and special diets, there are other problems associated with diabetes which few persons realize.

For one thing, diagnosing the disease frequently presents a problem. One reason why there are so many unreported cases is that diabetes is a great imitator.

Puzzling symptoms may lead the victim to suspect his trouble is only a case of indigestion. Pain and uneasiness following meals is a frequent symptom of diabetes which is blamed simply on indigestion.

Sometimes an acute case of diabetes provides symptoms similar to acute appendicitis. This is a problem for the doctor, one which he must solve in a hurry.

Administration of insulin also may be a problem. Some persons are allergic to insulin. Yet if they have diabetes, they vitally need it.

Generally, any reaction at the site of the injection will disappear in a few weeks. If the allergic reaction is severe, a different brand of insulin may be tried.

If that doesn't halt the allergy, the doctor might have to conduct a desensitization series similar to that used for other allergens.

Beginning with a diluted solution, the physician gradually administers a series of graded doses until a resistance to the allergic reaction is built up.

All diabetes problems are not necessarily physical troubles. It's vitally important for a diabetic to avoid needless emotional crises.

To help him make a good adjustment to his ailment, it's usually advisable for him to establish new habits of living early in the disease.

Question and Answer

B. J.: Would a cyst on the breast cause backache?

Answer: Not likely. Backache may be due to a variety of causes, such as poor posture, arthritis, neuritis and disorders of the internal organs.

Flu Vaccine Report

WASHINGTON (UP) — Producers are distributing Asian Flu vaccine almost as fast as it is tested and released, the U.S. Public Health Service reports. The agency said Monday 13,502,97 shots were released during August and September and 11,245,055 doses had been packaged and shipped out by Oct. 4. The armed services received 4,371,300 shots of the total and 6,873,755 went for civilian use.

Sales of car polishes and waxes to car owners for self-application have increased approximately 20 per cent since 1952.

'Omnibus' Moves to NBC-TV This Sunday

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — "Omnibus" wheels out of a different garage when it takes off on its sixth TV excursion this Sunday.

It has moved from ABC-TV to NBC-TV. It will be seen in the afternoon instead of the evening. Aside from that, it will be pretty much the same sort of quality vehicle with Alistair Cooke again on hand to chauffeur.

And, as is his wont, Cooke will drive without the aid of a teleprompter, a method of working that makes Cooke almost as rare a TV commodity as an unpsychoanalyzed comic.

"I don't really see much point in reading off that revolving paper towel they call a teleprompter." Said Cooke in his book-lined eyrie above Manhattan's Fifth Ave.

Calls It Contradiction

"To me reading off a teleprompter is a contradiction of what TV is. An emcee is there to appeal to people of some intelligence, perhaps three or four of them sitting in a living room. He is supposed to be talking just as he would talk in a home. Intimacy should be the keynote.

"I shrink at singling myself out in this case, but I don't think it's any secret that the teleprompter is used, as far as I know, by just about every other emcee in TV. And it seems to me a great mistake. Only an actor can appear natural when he's reading someone else's words. And there is something lost when that naturalness is lost."

Alistair Cooke

The 49-year-old Cooke, a newsman who was born in Manchester, England, but who since has become an American citizen, feels that some shows mistake disorganization for naturalness.

"You take some of those daytime shows, terribly dreary specimens, where everybody is dragging cables around the floor and mouthing what they think are cute things. There is a depressing cordiality about them. That is not what I mean by naturalness.

"What do I mean? Well, I think Elsa Maxwell is the greatest single person on television. She comes over as a human being, a terribly difficult thing to do in this medium. She suggests such vitality. She just obliterates anyone who even stands near her.

"And I admire Steve Allen, too. He brings some sort of style to emceeing. He has a dry, wry sort of wit about him, ideal for TV."

As for "Omnibus" itself, Cooke is happy that a home has been found for the show this season. Like many other observers, he is less delighted with its time spot—where it overlaps another quality offering, CBS-TV's "Seven Lively Arts."

"It's part of the nonsense of network programming," observed Cooke. "The overlapping of good shows is unfair and makes no sense at all. I have no explanation for it. It's bemoaned, but continues to be done."

Cooke is not happy either with those who continue to classify "Omnibus" as "highbrow." "It's not at all, of course," said Cooke. "We did 'Antigone' for example, but we did it in English. If we were really highbrow, we would have done it in Greek."

In Hollywood—

Public to Star in New Show

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — A new kind of TV show—starring the public — is being prepared by Video's best - known cops, Jack Webb and Ben Alexander.

Titled "People," the program is an intimate study of a cross-section of America's peasantry and peers. Some 30 individuals are interviewed in each 30 - minute film segment on every subject imaginable.

Sound dull? Not so. In the pilot film Alexander (who plays detective Frank Smith to Webb's Joe Friday on 'Dragnet') talks to bums, students, bookies, scientists and just plain folks.

Television spokesmen say it's the first new type of entertainment to hit video since Betty Furness' wrestling match with a refrigerator.

Only One Pro

"Ben will be the only professional actor on the show," Webb explained. "All the others will be unrehearsed persons saying anything that comes to their minds.

"We won't ask topical questions or drum up arguments.

"It's not an Ed Murrow type program, and we're not trying to compete with news interviews. The show is difficult to describe because nothing like it has ever been attempted.

"The secret of the show is in cutting and editing the film. That will eliminate repetitious material and self - conscious fumbling around."

Some segments of "people" will devote a few minutes to asking individuals the same questions, such questions, such as "What does a piano sound like?" The variety of answers is endless, and most are funny.

On other occasions Alexander just ups and asks a person what he'd like to sound off about.

A Common Ground

"Every living sould has some favorite topic to talk about," Webb says, "and they pitch right in.

"The show is a natural outgrowth of 'Dragnet.' We use the closeup technique on interesting faces. Who knows, maybe we'll find potential actors to use for 'Dragnet.'"

The fast - paced show never spend enough time with any one persons to bore viewers. Alexander roams from the seamy side of life to the estates in Beverly Hills, Webb concluded. "Once we get a sponsor we can be on the air within 30 days. We know we have an offbeat idea, but we're also confident that it will be a big favorite when it goes on the air."

Good Samaritan Class Meets: Plans Activities

The Good Samaritan Sunday School class of Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church met in the parish house last Friday evening for the October meeting.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Isabel Striker, who used as her theme, "Duty". In connection with her topic, Mrs. George Hamilton showed colored movies of Bethesda Children's Home.

Mrs. Thelma Medsger, president, conducted the business session. The class voted to make an additional $50 contribution to the fund for purchasing material for the sewing project which is being conducted at the present time. Flowers were also sent from the class to the parsonage dedication services on Sunday.

The annual Halloween party will be held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 29. Members are requested to come masked.

The class will serve the Father-son banquet which will be held on Saturday, Nov. 2.

The 17 members and 3 guests present were served a lunch prepared by Mrs. Caroline Board and Mrs. Lois Murdock, and served by Mrs. Irene Memeyer and Mrs. Isabel Striker. Games were provided by Mrs. Marie Sykes and Mrs. Norma Wachs.

The next regularly scheduled meeting night has been changed to Nov. 15 since the Congregational dinner will be held on the usual meeting date.

River Towboat Now Texas Hotel

A familiar sight on the Monongahela River, the William Larimer Jones, is now being used for oil exploration work at the southern tip of Texas.

Named for a Pittsburgh steelman and industrialist, the boat was used for years in the coal towing trade.

In 1953 the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., owner of the William Larimer Jones, sold the boat along with three other craft which had been used in towing coal for the corporation.

The boats were purchased by a company engaged in refitting them and leasing them to oil exploration companies searching for off-coast oil beneath the waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

The Jones was leased to the Gulf Oil Corp., engaged in extensive off-shore oil exploration in the Gulf of Mexico and adjacent waters.

The change-over from towboat to quarter-boat required much refitting. As a quarter-boat the vessel needed no propulsion power of its own and the giant 25-ton paddle wheel, that had churned the waters of the Monongahela River for so many years, was removed. The boilers and engines were unnecessary, too, and they were removed.

The boat became a floating hotel. Additional sleeping, living and recreational quarters were built into it. A 22,000-gallon water tank was installed, together with a 2,000-gallon fuel tank to supply cooking and heating needs, and extensive refrigeration equipment.

Workmen engaged in off-shore oil exploration make their homes in these quarter-boats while on oil exploration trips.

The old river towboat, turned, quarter-boat, is anchored in a romantic spot. The Laguna is separated from the sea by a sandpit called Padre Island. It was in this very territory that the pirate captain, Jean LaFitte operated.

Many persons remember the William Larimer Jones best as the steamboat that raced the Homestead, a river steamer owned by the United States Steel Corp., at Pittsburgh in 1949. The Homestead won.

Again in 1951, the William Larimer Jones faced the formidable Homestead in another race that was declared a tie by the judges. That was the end of the races for the sternwheelers.

The boat was towed from Pittsburgh to New Orleans for its new role in the oil industry, a distance of about 100 miles. Fifty-one lockings were made en route and the trip required 11 days.

Population Up

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Census Bureau today estimated the U.S. population on Sept. 1 at 171,790,000. This was an increase of 20,657,000 or 13.7 per cent, since the last actual census in 1950.

Salt water from the oceans, being heavier than fresh water sometimes travels far enough upstream along river bottoms to contaminate city water drawn from the river.
